Resolution possible in Parliament's special session to drop 'India' from the statute and go with Bharat alone

BHARAT 'PRESIDENT OF INDIA'

DINNER INVITE TO G20 DELEGATES SPARKS POLITICAL JOUST

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@ New Delhi

THE Centre appears to be preparing the ground to drop the colonial name of the country, 'India', and going with Bharat instead. A resolution to this effect could possibly be discussed in the special session of Parliament that is scheduled to be held from September 18 to 22.

The resolution is expected to seek the sense of the House on the proposal. Article 1(1) of the Constitution states that "India, that is Bharat, shall be a Union of States." The Centre does not want to flip it to say 'Bharat, that is India', but to drop the colonial name across the Constitution, a well informed functionary of the BJP said.

The buzz began after copies of dinner invites from Rashtrapati Bhavan sent to G20 delegates, describing the host as 'The President of Bharat', appeared on social media. Hours later, official function notes of the PM's upcoming visit to Indonesia described him as Prime Minister of Bharat Narendra Modi.

In other words, the government already seems to have removed the word 'India' from its lexicon. What it now seeks to do is to formalise the decision in Parliament.

What would happen to its flagship schemes that have the India nomenclature, like Digital India, Stand up India, Make in India, etc is anybody's guess.

It triggered a political firestorm with several opposition leaders sharing Article 1 on social media. Congress leaders accused the government of being scared of the INDIA bloc and indulging in distraction from issues such as inflation and "rising unemployment".

Just a couple of days ago, RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat had strongly pitched for the use of Bharat instead of India at an event in Guwahati. But that has been the standard RSS line since ages. The matter is also expected to be discussed at the upcoming three-day RSS annual meet in Pune from September 14.

Sources said the government started working on the proposal to drop the colonial name of the country at least two years ago. It took more than 18 months of wide consultations with legal and constitutional experts before the government made up its mind.

An internal survey was also commissioned to figure out how people in general will react to the change in the country' name. The survey found that Bharat will have wider acceptance, sources said.

"Which is the main venue of the G20 summit? It is Bharat Mandapam. We built our new Parliament first, then Bharat Mandpam, then the dinner invite to the G20 delegates on behalf of the President of Bharat. It's part of a well thought out strategy," said a minister. P9

This should have happened earlier. This gives great satisfaction to the mind. 'Bharat' is our introduction. We are proud of it. The President has given priority to 'Bharat'. This is the biggest statement to come out of the colonial mindset
Dharmendra Pradhan, Union minister

REPUBLIC OF BHARAT - happy and proud... My apprehension has proven to be true. The Congress seems to have a strong aversion towards Bharat. It appears the name I.N.D.I.A was intentionally chosen with the aim of defeating BHARAT
Himanta Biswa Sarma, Assam CM

In our Constitution, it ('India') is incorporated and it is called the 'Constitution of India'. 'India' is an accepted word for our country. Making it Bharat, I don't think it is required

Farmers ending life to claim compensation, says minister

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @ Haveri

MINISTER for Textiles and Sugarcane Development Shivanand Patil's statement on Tuesday that farmers are committing suicide to get compensation triggered a controversy with some farmers' organisations and social activists demanding that he be removed as Haveri district in-charge minister.

Addressing reporters here, Patil said compensation is being claimed for those who died of heart attack.

Compensation is being claimed stating that they committed suicide as they could not repay their loans and because of crop loss.

"When we started giving Rs 5 lakh as compensation, the number of suicide cases went up. An analysis of the suicide cases reported before 2015 and after indicates this. When we started giving more compensation, more such cases were reported. It is natural for one to aspire for compensation and poor people try to get money by reporting natural deaths as cases of suicide," the minister said.

"In all, 500 such cases were reported in 2020, 595 in 2021, 651 in 2022 and 412 so far this year. The reasons mentioned in the FIRs were not genuine. Only a few are genuine cases," he said. P6

SSLC, PU students can face three board exams

@ Bengaluru

MINISTER for Primary and Secondary Education Madhu Bangarappa on Tuesday announced that three board examinations will be conducted for SSLC (10th standard) and second PU (12th standard) students from the academic year 2023-24.

This is to reduce stress and burden on students. With the new changes, "Supplementary Examination" will be renamed as "Annual Examination 1,2,3".

Calling it a "student-friendly" system, officials of the education department said the new rules will help students improve their scores and retain the best marks out of the three board exams. All three exams will be held with uniformity in the content.

Transformer centre set up 4m underground in M'swaram

500kVA station has 1HP submersible water pump, escapes severe climatic changes like heat, storms

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IN a first in India, Bangalore Electricity Supply Company Limited (Bescom) in association with Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP), has set up a distribution transformer centre under a footpath in Bengaluru's Malleswaram ward.

Bescom and BBMP officials said the project is purported to transform the power distribution sector as the move not only helps improve the aesthetics of the city, but also ensures citizens have a safe and obstacle-free footpath. The underground transformer was earlier on the footpath, blocking the pedestrian way and posing a threat to citizens. The transformer is stationed 4 metres below ground level, and can be accessed through two metal doors. It has stationed a 500kVA capacity transformer with eight-way solid-state ring main units (RMU) and has a cast iron earthing grid. The underground station has a 1HP submersible water pump, which is said to automatically turn on and drain out from the transformer unit, in case the underground station gets flooded. It has automatic temperature and humidity monitoring systems, UPS, lighting and ventilation system.

Energy Minister K J George with BJP MLA C N Ashwathnarayan at the inauguration of Underground Distribution Transformer Centre on Tuesday | SHASHIDHAR BYRAPPA

Bescom engineers told TNIE there were many challenges in shifting the transformer underground. However, its novel design prevents electrical equipment from experiencing severe climatic conditions, including storms and high temperatures, increase reliability and the transformers' lifespan, they added. Speaking on the sidelines of its inauguration, Energy Minister KJ George said: "Bengaluru has around 300 transformers which are hazardous. The cost to shift one transformer underground is around Rs 2 crore. While we do not have enough funds to shift all of them underground, steps will be taken to shift the hazardous ones wherever feasible."

As there is hardly any place available in Bengaluru, upcoming sub-stations will be set up underground, George said. Thermal power generation to end stating that the demand for power in the state is similar to summer, George said the state is facing a shortage of 17 million units and is looking to the skies for rain to strengthen its hydel sources of power.

Load shedding to start?

Replying to media questions on the sidelines of the event that the many parts of the city are witnessing power outages, George said, "We have not started any load shedding yet. If we do so, we will announce it officially. The power outages could be due to maintenance works taken up by Bescom." "The state is facing deficit rain, and the demand for power is similar to summer. We are already purchasing power to the tune of Rs 40 crore every day. As there is huge demand for power across India, purchasing more power is also difficult," George said, hinting that there may be load shedding in the coming days. Malleswaram MLA Dr CN Ashwath Narayan said citizens should not be inconvenienced due to power shortage and suggested that to tide over power shortage, the government should not hesitate to purchase power.

'Will catch those writing threat letters to writers'

ASSURING that the state government will give protection to progressive writers who are facing threats, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Tuesday said, "We will catch those writing threat letters to progressive writers."

Speaking at a function to mark the sixth death anniversary of journalist Gauri Lankesh, the chief minister said he knew Gauri as a person who never asked for any personal favours. "She would talk about tribal rights of Kodagu, communalism and other issues. But she was killed by fascist forces," he added.

Siddaramaiah said, "Those who raise their voice against communalism are being targeted. If we fear communalism, it will be their weapon. Some people are threatening scholars and writers. There seems to be a pattern. I have told the police to take stern action against those sending threat letters."

Referring to the investigation of the Gauri Lankesh murder case, he said, "The chargesheet in the case is strong. Come what may, the accused cannot escape. The 1,000-page chargesheet has over 500 witnesses. If the accused get convicted, we will ensure justice to Gauri."

Shylaja Teacher, former minister from Kerala, said she has no faith in "Sanatana Dharma" and she only believes in the Constitution. "If these people come to power again, there will be no elections. That is why fascist forces are killing progressive thinkers and writers when they raise their voice against communalism. In a BJP-ruled state, they are removing Gandhi's photos and replacing them with Savarkar's. Our country is burning. We need to unite now," she added.

Rakesh Tikait from Sayunkt Kisan Morcha said the people of Karnataka have given a big message during the Assembly elections.

"TODAY, the Constitution is in danger and the responsibility to protect it is on all of us," said Chief Minister Siddharamaiah, while speaking at the inauguration of Teacher's Day Celebrations organised by the Department of School Education and Literacy, and the Department of Higher Education, in Bengaluru on Tuesday.

The Chief Minister felicitated and presented awards to 43 teachers from across the state for their exceptional service, and also remembered Bharat Ratna Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan's contribution to education. Speaking on the occasion, he pointed out the importance of students developing a scientific temperament. He said that just because one holds degrees or doctorates, one cannot be called well-educated when their minds are filled with superstitions. "What is the need for education if degree holders are becoming casteists. Students should develop scientific temperament and rationality," he said.

Addressing the teachers, the Chief Minister also said, "Farmers, soldiers, and teachers are the pillars of an ideal society."

'Metro Mitra' will help you choose auto driver

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

TO end the perception that autorickshaw drivers are rude, they overcharge and fleece passengers, the Autorickshaw Drivers' Union (ARDU) will soon launch the 'Metro Mitra' application to change the negative image of auto drivers.

According to Rudramurthy, general secretary, ARDU, the aim is to remove middlemen, help customers choose drivers and ensure that details of the driver are known to the customer, including name, autorickshaw number and languages known.

The app will also have a provision to share customer experience. The pilot project will be launched at Jayanagar and RV Metro stations, and about 50 drivers are being trained. An additional Rs 10 will be charged on the meter fare for maintenance of the app, which works on the Beta version. "A QR code will give all details of the driver. Commuters will also have the option to choose their drivers. This is to avoid overcharging or refusal to ply," said Rudramurthy.

Expressing solidarity with ARDU, Adarsh Auto Drivers' Union general secretary Sampath C said the initiative will have to be replicated across all Metro stations. He said drivers will also have to be educated and trained on how to use the app and interact with customers. "Customers usually opt for a distance of 5km in the radius of a Metro station, as there is no last-mile connectivity. This initiative will be win-win for commuters and auto drivers," he added.

Srinivas Alavilli, public transport expert and Fellow, World Resource Institute (WRI), lauded the effort and said auto unions play a big role in traffic management.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

6th September: People are still asking me about Pluto's new status, many years after it was declared to be no longer a planet. What happened was that a meeting of astronomers in Prague in August 2006 declared that Pluto was not a planet, but a new type of body called a 'dwarf planet'. Most astronomers disagree with this decision and, in any case, it makes no difference at all to astrology.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The Sun and Pluto have teamed up in a rather splendid alignment, but if you think that you can sit around while financial matters sort themselves out, you are making a big mistake. Don't take risks, and don't toy with someone else's emotions.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Partners really must be taken seriously if you are not to blunder into something rather more than you bargained for. Never make the cardinal error of belittling any friend, colleague or associate, especially if you happen to be in their debt!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
One area of your chart which deserves mention today represents your physical well-being. It looks as if emotional tension could leave you feeling worn out, but sensible, organised relaxation will go a long way to help. Pamper yourself!

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Tomorrow's stars raise the prospect of wild and costly financial risks. The reason this needs to be mentioned today is so that you can resist any seductive blandishments or offers coming your way over the next twenty-four hours - at least until you're aware of the hidden pitfalls.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
A very powerful theme in your solar chart concerns a possible move of home or equivalent domestic upheaval. The best way to retain control is to set the pace at every turn. Once you start reacting to events after they happen, you will quickly lose your way.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
There's a possible problem at work, perhaps involving a misunderstanding and almost certainly connected to a person of intense passions. Somebody you're involved with will also make a demand for total truth and commitment. Be careful, and say only what you mean.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
There is a sense in which you keep coming back to the same financial problems and worries, just like a cracked record. Yet rather than dwelling on hopes, fears and other illusions, you may actually do something about it. All you need is sufficient determination.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
It so happens that today's planetary picture offers you the chance to triumph once and for all. You could even be propelled headlong into a remarkable twelve-month period of optimism and opportunity. Any way in which you can put your cares behind you will be well worth the effort.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Mercury represents your brilliant thoughts and best ideas, and its current helpful presence reveals your ability to control everyone and everything set up in opposition to you. You may be able to banish rivals with no more than a few well-chosen words.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Business pressures are mild today, but liable to blow up before much longer. In general I'd advise caution but, in specific situations, you must use your own judgment. It may be better to make plans in secret, away from others' intrusive gaze. That way you'll avoid unnecessary criticism.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Little by little, life is moving your way, and you may assert your independence and stand up for your rights. However, authority figures, from employers to the law, are liable to be swept up by intense emotions at unpredictable moments, so watch out!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You still have a powerful desire for anything which is strange, different or just plain unusual. It really doesn't matter what you dabble in, or where you do it, just as long as it is stimulating and stirs up new ideas. Leave partners to cope with dull, everyday life!

LOKAYUKTA SPL COURT

'GOVT HOSPITALS STAND FIRST IN CORRUPTION'

Hospital 'D' Group staff have become bribe collectors: court

YATHIRAJU @ BENGALURU:

Observing that government hospitals top in corruption, a Lokayukta Special Court said corrupt employees have created anarchy and eroded faith in the minds of common people, who depend on these hospitals due to poverty and their inability to get treatment in private hospitals.

"This is not the stage to decide the merits of the case and find out the guilt of the accused, who approached court for anticipatory bail. Though it is an open secret that the evil of corruption has become a business wherever we go in public offices, and government hospitals in particular," the court said.

Judge KM Radhakrishna made these observations while rejecting the anticipatory bail petition filed by accused Waheed, a ward boy at General Hospital in Yelahanka, Bengaluru, recently.

"Of course, one can extend mercy upon the accused of this nature, on the ground that he is just a ward boy or peon or attender, or a person holding a small post. But in fact, officials working in the capacity of 'D' Group have become a bribe collection machinery, rather than discharge their official duties," the court said.

Manjula was admitted to hospital for delivery on July 14, 2023, with labour pain. Gynaecologist Ramachandra KC allegedly told her and her family members that the lives of both the mother and unborn baby were in danger unless a Caesarean surgery was performed. For this, he demanded a bribe of Rs 15,000, and finally agreed to Rs 11,000.

The next day, he allegedly took Rs 10,000 as advance through ward boy Waheed, and performed a Caesarean operation. Lokayukta police registered a case against them under the Prevention of Corruption Act.

Material placed before court prima facie indicates the involvement of the petitioner in committing the offence, without showing any mercy to the pregnant woman who was suffering from labour pain, the court said.

The peculiar facts of the case indicate the necessity of custodial interrogation of the petitioner to unearth the ground reality, and the officer involved with the petitioner in demanding and accepting illegal gratification, the court added.

HC to Ganesh: Construct in eco-zone, but at own risk

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ BENGALURU

The Karnataka High Court permitted actor Ganesh aka Ganesh Kisan to go ahead with the construction in a village of Bandipur's eco-sensitive zone subject to further orders by the court.

The permit comes after a request to the court by the actor to allow him to continue the construction work.

Justice Krishna S Dixit passed the order recently after recording the submission made by Ganesh's counsel, who filed a plethora of documents along with a memo that prima facie should the existence of permanent buildings arguably of the recent past in and around the subject village.

While permitting, the court said if the construction proves to be permanent and therefore is impermissible in the light of the Supreme Court decision, then Ganesh runs the risk of consequences.

Further, the petitioner agrees that he may be continuing with construction subject to further orders of the court and that he would not plead any equity on the basis of such construction.

The Advocate General submitted that the authorities do not have any objection whatsoever, should the construction be of a temporary nature in the light of the decision of the Supreme Court. Further hearing will be held on September 12.

Prajwal moves HC seeking stay on judgment

Seeks stay till he approaches Supreme Court

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

PRAJWAL Revanna, grandson of former Prime Minister and JDS supremo HD Deve Gowda, on Tuesday moved the Karnataka High Court with an interlocutory application seeking a stay of its September 1 order declaring his election to Lok Sabha from Hassan constituency as null and void for indulging in corrupt practices, till the filing of the appeal before the Supreme Court.

Prajwal Revanna

Giving time to petitioners to file objections, Justice K Natarajan adjourned the hearing to September 8.

Giving reasons as to why Prajwal's election was to be set aside, the HC noted that the petitioners have proved the charges of corrupt practices beyond reasonable doubt in the election regarding non-disclosure of material facts, including the amount spent for a helicopter for star campaigners, wrong disclosure of the value of the properties and income from the business, evading taxes, proxy voting, exorbitant expenditures than the limit prescribed and wrong acceptance of nomination paper by the returning officer.

The court passed the order while partly allowing the two petitions filed by BJP-defeated candidate A Manju, who is currently JDS MLA from Arakalgud, and advocate G Devaraje Gowda, questioning the Prajwal's election in 2019, on the ground of non-disclosure of assets which amounts to corrupt practice under Section 123 of the Representation of the People Act.

While doing so, the court also rejected the prayer of Manju to declare him as the winning candidate and issued directions to issue notice to Prajwal's father HD Revanna, who is an MLA and brother Suraj, who is an MLC.

BJP TO PROTEST AGAINST GOVT ON FRIDAY

BENGALURU: The BJP will stage a statewide protest against the Congress government on Friday. The protest will be held in each Assembly constituency in the state. The protest will be headed by the local MLA or MLC, or local leaders. BJP MLA Dr CN Ashwath Narayan told TNIE the state government completed 100 days in office recently, and in the past three months, their administration has failed miserably. He said there are many issues, including corruption, Cauvery issue, farmers' suicide, mismanagement of drought, murders that reveal failure of law and order, and much more. "We are protesting against these issues in every constituency and will reach out to the people," he said. ENS

Bommai 'insulted', BSY 'ignored'... Lingayats feel saffron party sidelining their community

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

AS per tradition, a former chief minister becomes the opposition leader in Karnataka and this time, Basavaraj Bommai should have got the post, said Veerashaiva Mahasabha Secretary Renuka Prasanna.

"The very fact that they (BJP leadership) have not appointed him as opposition leader and kept the post vacant shows that they are insulting Bommai, who is a Lingayat. They are proposing other names, playing mind games with Bommai and insulting him in public, so that he says in frustration that he is not interested in it," he said.

Analysts pointed out that BJP got lesser number of Lingayat votes in the recent Assembly elections as the community felt alienated. What will be the party's prospects be in 2024 Lok Sabha polls, they asked.

Political analyst BS Murthy said, "A narrative is being built in the Lingayat community against BJP National General Secretary BL Santhosh, who is increasingly being seen as the one who stands against the interests of the community. It started with his video that went viral before the elections, where he is alleged to have said BJP needs to depend more on Hindutva votes than Lingayat support. The statements of (former CM) Jagadish Shettar, MP Renukacharya, Pradeep Shettar and other Lingayat leaders have only increased the perception of a divide between BJP and Lingayats."

Basavaraj Bommai BS Yediyurappa

In the Karnataka political landscape, the only mass leader who matches up to Siddaramaiah of Congress and HD Deve Gowda and HD Kumaraswamy of JDS is BS Yediyurappa. As Santhosh slowly sinks into the trap of "enemy of Lingayats", the central leadership will find itself under great pressure. Bommai is seen as someone remotely controlled by the party and he cannot fill in Yediyurappa's giant shoes, he added.

Congress is talking of winning 20 Lok Sabha seats out of 28 in the state. BJP leaders realise that Congress victory will be at the cost of BJP, which holds 25 seats. If Yediyurappa is not brought back into the centrestage, BJP will find it difficult to hold ground. Like in Kerala, where the party used the services of E Sreedharan, who was then 88 years old — well over the party's retirement age of 75, the party now has to look at Yediyurappa, who is 80 years old, he said.

Sources said that recently, right wing groups approached many Lingayat seers to make a statement against Udayanidhi Stalin's Sanatan Dharma comment, but none obliged. If Yediyurappa were to be in charge, he would have got at least a few seers to respond. "If this is not Lingayat disenchantment, what is," they asked.

BJP MLC Adagur Vishwanath said, "Modi was here to wish the ISRO team. If he was concerned he could have invited Bommai or Parliamentary Board Member Yediyurappa or other tall BJP leaders to the airport to receive him. That he preferred to have bureaucrats receive him is an insult to so many people, especially Bommai and the state leadership."

Renaming India not required: Siddaramaiah

Slamming the attempts to change the name of the country from India to Bharat, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Tuesday said there was no need to rename the country.

The chief minister said that the country is referred to as India in the Constitution, and it is the name agreed upon by all.

Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar said that as the president of the Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee, he will oppose the move.

Shivakumar said that Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the Union Government are making attempts to change the name of India to Bharat as they are scared of the I.N.D.I.A bloc.

Speaking to reporters at Kanakapura in Ramanagara district on Tuesday, Shivakumar said that the BJP was going to lose the upcoming Lok Sabha elections. "There is India on our currency notes. They are trying to change this. We are all Indians. It is not fair to change the name and this also shows they fear losing the polls. They have many such thoughts... it is scary.... I shall speak about it in some other platform" he said.

"Such politics will not stay long. They cannot be in power for long. Do not make such moves," he urged the Centre. On the I.N.D.I.A bloc, the DyCM said that the idea was born in Bengaluru and the change began in Bengaluru.

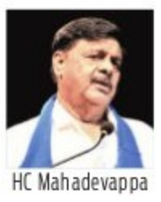
Sanatanavada kept Shudras away from education, says Mahadevappa

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

WITH Tamil Nadu minister Udhayanidhi Stalin's remark on the Sanatana Dharma creating a political furore across the country, Karnataka Social Welfare Minister HC Mahadevappa on Tuesday said that Sanatanavada kept Shudras away from education for centuries.

Speaking after inaugurating the Teachers' Day celebration organised by the School Education Department here on Tuesday, Mahadevappa said that only 10% of Indians were literate during independence.

"A majority of the Indians were living in the dark as they had no education to search the path of light. Education was denied to Shudras, who were the majority population in the country. They even punished those who tried to get education. However, even though Britishers had inflicted great damage to the country, Lord Macaulay's liberalisation of the education system helped Shudras to get education," he said. Mahadevappa said that this education liberalisation gave the opportunity to Dr BR Ambedkar to get the highest level of education.



HC Mahadevappa

"We now celebrate the birth anniversary of Dr BR Ambedkar as World Knowledge Day. It could not have been possible if Britishers had not liberalised the education system in the country. Kannada writer Kuvempu had said that if Macaulay had not liberalised the education system, then he would have been a slave in the house of a sanatanavadi," he said. Mahadevappa said that through various policies, the literacy rate increased to 75%. "If there was a free education policy from the beginning, we could have overtaken even the European countries in education," he added.

Mahadevappa said role of teachers in building society is important. "Through education we can achieve everything. Nehru who had a vision in space technology first started the ISRO. Now scientists are sending satellites to the Moon and sending pictures which is a great achievement. However, with advanced technology, human values are suffering...," he added. Mysuru District Primary and High School Headmasters' Association president P Mahadevaiah urged the government not to utilise teachers to other works than their teaching. He submitted a memorandum to the minister.

BJP leader files plaint against Udhayanidhi Stalin

BENGALURU: Taking objection to the remark on Sanatana Dharma made by Tamil Nadu minister Udhayanidhi Stalin, former BBMP corporator and Bengaluru South District BJP president NR Ramesh has filed a complaint with the Banashankari police in Bengaluru on Tuesday. Alleging that Udhayanidhi has called for the destruction of the Sanatana Dharma which has a population of more than 100 crores, Ramesh also demanded that criminal cases be filed against the minister. "Udayanidhi has gone against the wishes of the Constitution... His statement may inspire the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam cadres to carry out attacks on Hindu religion. Therefore, I have filed a complaint with the police. I have requested the police to register a FIR under IPC sections 120B, 153A, 295 and 504 of the IPC," Ramesh said. ENS

'QUALITY EDUCATION'

DyCM DK Shivakumar said the state government has plans to bring in revolutionary changes in the education sector. "Quality education is our priority. We will come up with plans to provide quality education to children in rural areas on par with their counterparts in cities. We are chalking out a plan to make this possible by using CSR funds and encouraging private institutions to adopt schools in rural areas. We are in talks with experts in this regard," he added.

Cong workers will be made chiefs of boards and corpns, says Shivakumar

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister DK Shivakumar said on Tuesday that opportunities will be given to Congress workers to serve as heads of government boards and corporations.

He was replying to reporters' queries on the party MLAs' demand to appoint them as chairpersons of boards and corporations, at Kanakapura near here.

Shivakumar said the MLAs are also leaders of the party and there is nothing wrong with their demand. "Not everyone is demanding a position. Only 15-20 MLAs have put forth their demand. We will appoint 15 MLAs to boards and corporations. Party workers will be appointed to the remaining boards and corporations. The workers will head the boards and corporations for two years," he added.

Shivakumar said that his first priority is for Ramanagara and then Kanakapura, his home constituency, when it comes to development works. He was responding to a question on the controversy surrounding the state government's decision to shift the proposed government medical college from the Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences (RGUHS) campus at Ramanagara to Kanakapura.

"When HD Kumaraswamy was chief minister, he had announced in the budget that a medical college would be established in Kanakapura. Even tenders had been invited and only the ground breaking ceremony was pending. Whatever is required for Ramanagara will be done. And the same applies to Kanakapura. Our first preference is Ramanagara and then Kanakapura," the Deputy Chief Minister said.

CAUVERY ROW

AGRICULTURE Minister N Cheluvarayaswamy on Tuesday urged farmers not to protest against the release of Cauvery water to Tamil Nadu and assured them that the government would stand by distressed ryots.

He asked farmers, who were protesting in Mandya, to have patience. The dispute concerning Cauvery water sharing and Karnataka's petition are coming up before the Supreme Court on Wednesday, he added. "I have prayed for a favourable judgement as we have apprised the court of the ground situation in Cauvery basin."

Cheluvarayaswamy and Mandya MLA Ravikumar met protesting members of the Raitha Hitharakshana near Sir M Visvesvaraya's statue.

Former Prime Minister HD Deve Gowda has called for unity in this fight. All political parties have assured the government of support, and an all-party delegation that will meet Prime Minister Narendra Modi will ask for a distress formula. The government is committed to farmers' interests in Hemavathi, KRS, Kabini and Haranadi achukats, he said.

SOME farmer leaders from Haveri said, "Shivanand Patil is a minister and he should not talk lightly about farmers. He should take steps to stop farmers from taking the extreme step. As their elected representative, he should help them overcome their problems. We appeal to him to stop making such irresponsible statements. One should not take others' problems lightly. We demand that the state government remove him as Haveri district in-charge minister."

Meanwhile, Patil said, "I request the farmers' organisations to vouch for genuine cases and it is our duty to give compensation."

KPCC plans event in Ramanagara to mark Bharat Jodo Yatra anniv

ENS @ Bengaluru

TO mark one year of the Bharat Jodo Yatra, the Congress is holding a programme in Ramanagara on Thursday in which Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and other leaders will take part.

Speaking to reporters in Kanakapura on Tuesday, Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar said to mark the anniversary of the yatra, the All India Congress Committee (AICC) has decided to hold programmes across the country. "As part of it, the state Congress has organised a walk in Ramanagara. It was decided to hold the event in Bengaluru but I advised the CM to shift the venue as it would have affected traffic," Shivakumar, who is also the president of the state Congress said, adding that Siddaramaiah would be walking with members of the public for an hour in Ramanagara.

Further, Shivakumar said that as the cabinet meeting is scheduled on Thursday, the ministers will be asked to hold the programme on Friday. "The walk will be organised in all district centres," he added.

NAME MATTERS

It rains Maliyappas, Maliyavvas in these villages

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @ Koppal

IN more than 15 villages in Yelburga taluk of Koppal district, every house has a man or woman named Maliyappa or Maliyavva. This tradition that is being followed for over a century is to please the rain god and prevent drought in this arid region.

At least one member of the family is named Maliyappa or Maliyavva here, and with this, there are hundreds of villagers with these names in the 15 villages. Mali means rain and yappa or yamma are colloquial terms used to address the elderly in North Karnataka.

The villagers are devotees of Male Malleshwar, the reigning deity of a temple by the same name at Vajrabandi village in Yelburga taluk that is 41 km from Koppal town. Situated on the outskirts of the village on top of a small hill, this old, small temple is one of the most famous religious places in the region. There is a lake near the shrine, and people who visit the temple carry a small amount of water from it to pour in their fields as they believe it blesses them with good crops.

The temple is located in Vajrabandi

Veeresh Malipatil, a resident of Vajrabandi, said, "The Male Malleshwar fair was held a few days ago, and hundreds of people from surrounding villages took part. That day, the village witnessed rain for some half-an-hour. Male Malleshwar is a rain god, who has been blessing the region every year. This year, the monsoon was late, but farmers were not scared as they have a strong belief in the deity. Some sowed green gram and got profit too, while farmers from other regions suffered losses. Some may call it a coincidence, but we all believe in our rain God."

An agricultural official from Koppal said, "We have heard about it. The region witnessed scanty rainfall, but some farmers got profit this time too. We cannot believe that God blessed them with rain, but they made a good decision and they profited."

Preferential treatment case: NBW against Sasi

Jayalalithaa aide and Ilavarasi had failed to appear before Lokayukta Special Court

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

VK Sasikala, a close aide of former Tamil Nadu chief minister late J Jayalalithaa, and her sister-in-law Ilavarasi have been issued a non-bailable warrant (NBW) by the Lokayukta Special Court, which is hearing the case related to alleged 'preferential treatment' received by them while serving sentence in the disproportionate assets case.

The Lokayukta Special Court, on Monday, issued NBW against Sasikala and Ilavarasi, who are currently on bail, besides ordering to issue notice to sureties. The hearing has been adjourned till October 5.

Sasikala and Ilavarasi were named accused no. 5 and 6, respectively, in a case which was registered by the Anti-Corruption Bureau in 2018. The ACB had booked the accused persons under various sections of the IPC and the Prevention of Corruption Act. Among the six accused, the Karnataka High Court, in May early this year, quashed the proceedings against three accused, who were officials of the Bengaluru Central Prison, where Sasikala and Ilavarasi were lodged from 2017 to 2021. In June, Sasikala had also approached the High Court, requesting quashing of the proceedings against her.

As Sasikala and Ilavarasi failed to appear before the Lokayukta Special Court, which is hearing the case, despite issuing summons, the court issued NBW against them on Monday.

It may be recalled that senior IPS officer D Roopa had exposed that the staff of Bengaluru Central Prison had extended 'VIP treatment' to Sasikala and Ilavarasi, who were serving jail sentence in a multi-crore disproportionate assets case.

Auto driver attacks woman techie near Whitefield, at large

PRAVEEN KUMAR @ Tirumala

A 30-year-old woman software professional from Mumbai and her husband, who are new to the city, found themselves in a horrific situation after she was slapped and elbowed by a violent auto driver in Kadugodi.

The couple had come to Bengaluru two months ago after the wife landed an IT job in Bellandur. They stay in a service apartment in Channasandra near Whitefield.

The incident occurred between 4 pm and 5 pm on Wednesday, near MVJ Engineering College. The couple had hired an auto from Prestige Shantiniketan in Whitefield to Channasandra, and on approaching their destination, requested the driver to stop just 100 metres further, closer to their apartment. But this triggered an argument, leading to the accused assaulting the woman. The driver also allegedly threw the fare money at her face and left the spot after threatening her with dire consequences. It is also alleged that he struck her twice with his vehicle during the altercation.

"The driver started passing comments after I asked him to drop us a little ahead for an additional fare, apart from the Rs 200 we had agreed upon. When he raised his voice, I asked him to behave. He started abusing us in filthy language. When I warned him, he slapped me and elbowed me near my ear. He threatened my husband too. When I stepped out of the auto and handed him the money, he threw it on my face. He struck me twice with his vehicle, and I had to jump to the side of the road. He kept abusing us and also tried to follow us. We were afraid that he might find our apartment and waited till he left the place. We hired another auto and went to the Whitefield police station, but were directed to the Kadugodi station," she said.

The woman filed a complaint with the Kadugodi police around 6.30 pm. "The driver is yet to be arrested. The victim has provided the auto registration number," said an officer.

22 die in man-animal conflicts since April

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah and Forest, Environment and Ecology Minister Eshwar Khandre on Tuesday held a high-level meeting with forest department officials in the wake of increasing cases of man-animal conflict.

At the meeting, it was highlighted that from the month of April to September 5 this year, 22 people have lost their lives, after coming in conflict with tigers, elephants, leopards, sloth bears and wild boars.

The CM directed the forest officials to ensure that all measures are in place to address the issue and also food and water be made available inside forests. At the meeting held at the CM's home office Krishna, it was also pointed out that rain scarcity was another cause for the rise in conflicts. Siddaramaiah also directed officials to look into the applications made under the Forest Rights Act. Siddaramaiah added that there should be an inspection of the afforestation undertaken so far, and to ascertain how many plants have survived, and the locations be geo-tagged.

Khandre apprised the CM that 148 people had died in the last five-and-half years due to man-elephant conflict alone. He also appealed to the state and Centre to release more funds for rail barricades and to strengthen elephant corridors.

Earlier in the day, Khandre held a closed-door meeting with forest department officials on man-elephant conflict. Speaking to the media, Khandre said directions have been issued to clear all encroachments along elephant corridors.

Also, stern action should be taken against quarrying and mining units set up in and around the forest boundaries. Khandre added that criminal cases will be registered against those indulging in mining activities in and around the forest areas. Action will also be taken against forest officers found guilty of offences.

Students can choose best subject-wise score

IF a student passed the II PU examination but was not satisfied with the marks obtained in any of the subjects, he did not have the option to take the exam again. The "Supplementary Examination" was only for those who failed or were absent for the main board exam.

But with the new rule, students can choose the best subject-wise score among the marks obtained in all three attempts. The previous system accepted only supplementary exam scores as the final one.

While announcing this at the Teachers' Day celebrations at Vidhana Soudha, Madhu said, "In total marks, even if students fail in a few subjects, the minimum required marks will be considered as aggregate. This step has been taken to boost confidence among students."

The board informed that clear guidelines for students regarding the revised system will be issued through a circular. Students will also be provided with a "bridge course" to make up for the missed classes in the initial month.

KSEAB released a possible timetable for the three board exams:

TTD TO PROVIDE VIP BREAK DARSHAN TO YOUNGSTERS

ENS @ Tirumala

IN a move to promote Sanatan Dharma, the Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD) has decided to provide VIP break darshan facility to youngsters of 25 years of age and below along with their family members who write 'Govinda Koti' in the style of Rama Koti. Similarly, one-time darshan facility would be provided to those (below 25 years) who write 'Govinda Namavali' for 10,01,116 times.

The TTD Trust Board headed by Chairman Bhumana Karunakara Reddy held its maiden meeting at Annamaiah Bhavan in Tirumala on Tuesday. Announcing the Trust Board's decision, Karunakara said they had taken several big decisions to promote Dharma in a big way to attract youth to the path of 'Bhakti'.

"To inculcate devotion among children and their families, we have embarked on the 'Govind Koti Yagnam'," he explained. The Board also took a decision to gift a booklet on the Bhagavad Gita to each student in the state, from LKG to post-graduation, through schools, colleges and universities.

It was also decided that Rs 300 crore would be invested for constructing Achyutham and Sripatham Pilgrim Amenities Complexes (PACs) near the Tirupati Railway Station. "These two PACs will accommodate nearly 20,000 pilgrims," Karunakara said. The TTD will also build another Srivari temple in Bandra, Mumbai, at Rs 1.65 crore and information centre at Rs 5.35 crore. The entire amount will be donated by the Trust Board members of TTD. Also, it was decided that a temple of folk goddess Moolasthana Ellamma be built in Chandragiri at an estimated cost of Rs 2 crore.

SOCIAL STRIFE A RISK TO BUSINESS, NATION'S GROWTH

There has been some controversy around the recent mixed ratings for India by Moody's Investor Services. Moody's has kept a 'stable' outlook for the economy, affirming a BAA3 rating. It considers that India's economy will continue to grow rapidly by international standards, though the potential growth has come down in the past seven to 10 years. High GDP growth will contribute to rising income levels and overall economic resilience. This will support gradual fiscal consolidation and government debt stabilisation, albeit at high levels, said Moody's. However, the ratings agency warned that "the curtailment of civil society and political dissent, compounded by rising sectarian tensions, support a weaker assessment of political risk and the quality of institutions". It also flagged poverty, income inequality, lack of access to education, and tension on the borders as "social and political risks".

The government has been critical of global rating agencies. It feels they underplay India's improvement in macroeconomic parameters. The government had pitched strongly with Moody's representatives in June for a sovereign rating upgrade, but it got a BAA3, the lowest investment grade rating. After the latest rating exercise, a government spokesman pointed to the contradictory positions and the failure to define what Moody's meant by "high level of debt" since most of the sovereign borrowings are domestic. Former chief economic advisor to the government, Arvind Subramanian, too, has said rating agencies often followed dual standards when analysing India and China.

Though there is some truth in the criticism that rating agencies are biased against poorer economies and often do not recognise the strides in growth made by countries like India, we will do well to seriously examine the "social" risk factors pointed out by Moody's. For instance, the rating agency stated that the ongoing ethnic strife in Manipur, where more than 200 people have died, contributes to "social" risk. The state has been without internet for over three months, seriously affecting businesses. War and social strife are antipathic to economic growth, and businesses require a stable social environment to prosper. In this context, the growing communal and caste divide contributes to worsening "social" risk. While Moody's may not be the last word on how India is faring economically, international investors rely on these ratings when deciding where to move their money.

SCRIMPY RAINFALL MAY UPSET K'TAKA PLANS

A truant monsoon threatens to bring a spell of misfortune for the Siddaramaiah government, which in May powered into office riding on the back of its 'five guarantee schemes'. A hot and dry August will likely hit agriculture and power generation. This could upset the calculations of the government, whose two primary schemes—Anna Bhagya (10 kg free rice per head of every BPL family) and Gruha Jyoti (free power up to 200 units)—largely depend on a steady monsoon. Karnataka, which records an average annual rainfall of 1,248 mm and is blessed with abundant rain in the Malnad and coastal regions, saw a 73% deficit this year. It received just 58 mm of rainfall against an average of 211 mm in August, a peak monsoon month. It will impact the Kharif crop which is sown in July and needs good irrigation, and could also affect the Rabi crop later. Water levels in major reservoirs are at 78% of last year's levels and are fast dropping; besides, the state is obliged to release a prescribed amount of water every month to Tamil Nadu.

Karnataka is also largely dependent on hydel power generation, besides thermal, solar and air resources. For the government to continue providing free power and expect no returns from most consumers, it should have ways of generating power cheaply. Otherwise, it may pay heavily to purchase power from the Central grid, upsetting its budgetary applecart. A drought situation bodes ill for any government as it brings its repercussions—crop loss, which will mean compensation for farmers, rising food prices, high cost of power generation and low revenue. Karnataka already faces a resource crunch because of heavy payouts for its five populist schemes, estimated to cost the government ₹52,000 crore annually. For now, development has been put firmly on the back burner.

September has brought the promise of rain and relief, and the government can only hope for adequate precipitation in the catchment areas and that the rain gods are merciful when the northeast monsoon (October to December) covers the state. Scientists say climate change has made monsoons more erratic and volatile. The rains are accompanied by heatwaves and extreme weather events like cyclones and landslides. The government, which may not have budgeted for an unpredictable monsoon, could be forced to raise revenue for its populist schemes through levies and taxes, making itself unpopular.

QUICK TAKE

GENDER AND CHOICE

Dr Ruth John Paul Koyyala is the first transgender person to join a PG programme in medicine. But she still has a fight on her hands because she didn't get her preferred speciality—obstetrics and gynaecology. It's a complex gender quota case, but the issue here is whether gender should dictate PG speciality choices. Worldwide empirical studies show gender impact on ObGyn choices as more women and fewer men enter this field. Notions that most women or transgender persons prefer confiding in same-gender doctors over men on intimate health topics bring medicine on a collision course with gender attitudes. Address this stereotype first.

If ideology is one tricky area for the Congress in a polarised polity, even in terms of pragmatic seat-sharing, the regional players will push it to concede more seats than in 2019

CONGRESS AND ITS PROSPECTS OF GOING SOLO IN 2024

SUGATA SRINIVASARAJU

Senior journalist and author of Strange Burdens: The Politics and Predicaments of Rahul Gandhi

Going by the deep flux in the nation's political landscape, one is tempted to ask if it is not better for the Congress to go it alone in 2024 instead of lugging along the burdens of the rest. A similar question was asked by regional parties in the recent past: should they quietly manage their turfs and terrains instead of sinking with the Congress?

Even when the Bharat Jodo Yatra was happening, not many regional leaders were ready to walk alongside Rahul Gandhi. But things somewhat changed: with great circumspection and palpable contradictions, an alliance was formed (or is still forming) a few months ago. The secular-regional entities and the secular national party buried their differences to fight the Narendra Modi-led BJP. They gave themselves the most contrived acronym to sound like a single force: I.N.D.I.A.

However, even as we began to think that the alliance had started off rather well after three meetings in Patna, Bengaluru and Mumbai, there are already signs of implosion written all over. Even before the overcrowded coordination committee constituted after the Mumbai edition could meet in mid-September, there was virtually a tornado uprooting the trees.

Look at the controversy that has just erupted over Udhayanidhi Stalin's statements vis-à-vis the 'eradication' of 'Sanatana Dharma'. His statement was cleverly interpreted as containing 'genocidal intent' by many on the extreme Right because he used the language of pestilence and pandemics. Even without this extreme interpretation, the statement has quietly served the majoritarian impulse of the BJP and the defenders of the faith.

If Udhayanidhi had used the language of social justice and spoken pointedly on treacherous caste hierarchies within the Hindu faith, perhaps there would have been no controversy. But the Dravidian hyperbole, cultivated with great diligence, does not allow anything to be expressed with reasonable calm. The rationalism of the Periyarist variety is sometimes not just a drumbeat but a death beat. There is inherent violence in the rhetoric they generate sometimes. The demagoguery of Tamil Dravidian nationalism is so incredibly sharp that it even excludes other linguistic cultures in the south of India. That is a cultural aspect which most of India above Vindhyas does not easily grapple.

If Udhayanidhi and his party, the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK), persist with the statement and offer no regrets, then within the existing Tamil cultural space, the simple calculation is they stand to gain electorally. This is perhaps why Stalin's son has said he'll repeat what he has said many times over. But the question is, where does it leave the Congress party across India? The BJP knows it cannot easily sink the DMK in Tamil Nadu but will use Udhayanidhi's statement to sink the Congress elsewhere by projecting them as partners without a faith.

SOUMYADIP SINHA

Just observe the range of reactions, or rather the utter confusion, to Udhayanidhi's statement within the Congress. There is the platitudinous line that Congress respects all religions (K C Venugopal), but there is also complete rejection of Udhayanidhi's statement (Kamal Nath). There is resolute criticism (Karan Singh) and there is a willing embrace too (Priyank Kharge). If an ally ends up dividing the Congress more than it is already divided, then should the Congress make its own plans for 2024?

For Priyank Kharge, a Dalit leader and son of Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge, there is greater identification with the party's Tamil Nadu ally than his own party's caste elites. If this controversy is not about ripping the Congress apart at a deeper level of identity and self-respect, what else is it? Can Rahul Gandhi publicly condemn the Kharges on this? The Congress may soon learn that secularism and anti-BJPism is too universal a prop to unite parties; the local details, the ideological nuances and the languages in every corner of India will destroy the carefully and artificially constructed harmonies inside the I.N.D.I.A alliance. What if every ally of the Congress does what the DMK did? The BJP will only hold Congress responsible because that is electorally the best thing for it to do.

After all, the regional players will look after their own interests first because they have fought the BJP when the Congress abdicated the space. From their point of view, they are only doing what they always did. To all the arguments that the BJP may build, it will also add the recent ideological stridency of Rahul Gandhi against the progenitor of Hindutva—Vinayak Savarkar. Speaking against Savarkar has created unease among the Congress' Maharashtra allies. There again, the allies have had to defend their sub-nationalist existence. Where does this leave the Congress when it cannot speak with conviction about anything? When the emotions and arithmetic of its regional allies pushes the party to wear a cloak of unfeeling, where must it go?

If ideology is one tricky area for the Congress in a polarised polity, even in terms of pragmatic seat-sharing, the regional players will push the Congress to concede more seats than it conceded in 2019, which was around 423. In 2014, Congress had contested 464 seats. More than one regional player has indicated in the past that the Congress should contest no more than 200 seats. If this is the case, what happens to the national imprint and vote share of the grand old party?

Besides electoral adjustments there will be questions around the leadership of the secular alliance. Rahul Gandhi is naturally doing well in opinion polls compared to other secret competitors within the alliance like Nitish Kumar or Mamata Banerjee. We have already seen leaders of the Janata Dal (United) ridiculing their Bihar ally Lalu Yadav's Rashtriya Janata Dal for pushing Gandhi's candidature for the top job. Also, Rahul's mutton dish-making bonhomie with Lalu Yadav will create (or already has) suspicion in their own Bihar secular grouping.

Rahul Gandhi's stridency on crony capitalism also makes a lot of Congress allies squirm when they actually need money and helicopters to fight elections. Congress targeting Modi in absolute terms on practically everything he proposes (one election, new Parliament, GST, etc) also does not make his allies happy. The lack of moderation and tactical concession, they feel, does not work well in a democratic set-up. It hardens the space. How can this dissonance go away?

WHEN ISRAEL'S FOREIGN POLICY STRATEGY TURNED 'LEAKY'

P R KUMARASWAMY

Professor at JNU. Teaches contemporary Middle East

The premature leak of a meeting between Israeli Foreign Minister Eli Cohen and his counterpart in the Libyan National Unity Government, Najla Mangoush, cost the latter her job and forced her to flee to Türkiye. It is widely recognised in Israel that Mangoush was fired not for her secret meeting per se but due to Cohen's premature leaking of their face-to-face conversation in Rome a few days ago, mediated by Italian Foreign Minister Antonio Tajani. Though Libyan Prime Minister Abdulhamid al-Dbeibah was aware of and even approved the meeting, the leak was politically devastating for the fragile government. Indeed, partly to appease domestic critics, he even visited the Palestinian embassy in Tripoli following the controversy.

Politicians the world over love ribbon-cutting even before the foundations are ready. Israeli Foreign Minister Eli Cohen is not an exception. Unable to control the excitement of a "historic breakthrough", Cohen disclosed the impending "normalisation" with another Muslim country. This unleashed another diplomatic row and temporarily ended any possible expansion of Israel's circle of friends. As a damage control measure, the Israeli foreign ministry disclosed that in the first-ever meeting between the two countries' officials, they discussed preserving Jewish heritage sites in Libya, cooperation in agriculture, and providing humanitarian aid to the war-torn country. Incensed by the intemperate behaviour, the US is furious that its efforts were temporarily scuttled and urged Israeli officials to find ways to "calm things down."

Even politically stable Arab countries are extremely cautious about normalisation of relations with Israel. Libya is far from stable, and for over a decade since the removal and murder of Muammar Qaddafi, the country is in the midst of a civil war, with rival factions competing for territorial control and international legitimacy. In May last year, clandestine Israeli moves resulted in the Iraqi Parliament passing a resolution that criminalised attempts towards normalising relations with the Jewish State. Similar disclosure by the then Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres thwarted normalisation with India in the late 1980s.

Moreover, President Biden could not expand the circle of Israel's friends in the region since assuming office. The I2U2—India, Israel, the United Arab Emirates, and the United States—is a poor attempt at consolidation and expansion of the gains of the Trump Administration. Indeed, the much-hyped Abraham Accords did not expand to include other Arab countries in the normalisation process once Trump left office in January 2021. While Israel's relations with Bahrain, Morocco and the UAE have grown, ties with Sudan have not progressed much. Despite periodic reports of contacts with and visits of senior officials, including Prime Minister Netanyahu, Saudi Arabia is still not ready to come out of the closet. However, the absence of relations did not inhibit the Al-Sauds from opening their airspace for travel to Israel. In March 2018, Air India started flying to Israel using Saudi airspace. Following the Abraham Accords, this privilege was extended to Israel's official carrier, El Al, for flights to India and Southeast Asia.

> The Libyan controversy reminds us of the more significant problem facing Israel. While the scale and intensity have reduced considerably, Israel's conflict with the Arab world is far from over

Last July, there were speculations that Israeli Muslims could directly fly to Jeddah for their hajj pilgrimage. The Saudi ambassador to Jordan is concurrently accredited to Palestine. This was seen as a prelude to an impending Israeli-Saudi normalisation. These behind-the-scenes movements need greater finesse and must be choreographed with Saudi interests in mind. President Biden's lack of political capital vis-à-vis Saudi Arabia is partly responsible for the non-realisation of Israeli-Saudi normalisation. The Democrats' noise about human rights considerably weakened Joe Biden's influence over Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman.

The current controversy over the premature leak also underscores the traditional Israeli foreign policy outreach since 1948. In a hostile environment, Israel conceived, developed and mastered clandestine diplomacy with its supposed Arab and Islamic adversaries. The Israeli-Jordanian ties were pursued at the highest levels even before the establishment of Israel. King Hussein met every Israeli prime minister except David Ben-Gurion and Menachem Begin. His erstwhile rhetoric of 'Jordan is Palestine' was adopted by maverick Ariel Sharon enjoying a greater personal rapport with King Hussein than the sweet-talking Netanyahu. The absence of formal relations did not inhibit Morocco—incidentally head of the Al-Quds Committee of the Arab League—from hosting Israeli officials and even nudging Anwar Sadat's normalisation efforts. Likewise, Oman and Qatar have hosted Israeli officials without formal recognition.

Due to the sensitivities of the Arab and Islamic interlocutors with whom relations do not exist, Israel relied more heavily on its intelligence agencies than foreign policy entablement. The security officials, for example, drafted the Israel-Jordan peace treaty, which the diplomats merely signed. Israel's external intelligence agency, Mossad, has a bigger role in sensitive foreign policy decisions than career diplomats.

Above all, the Libyan controversy reminds us of the more significant problem facing Israel. While the scale and intensity have reduced considerably, Israel's conflict with the Arab world is far from over. Normalisation was and continues to be a pawn in inter-Arab politics. Countries and groups—secular and Islamist—do not hesitate to whip up public passion against Israel. Some of these happen even without any active involvement of the Palestinians.

The Arab-Islamic normalisation with Israel increased the focus on the Palestinian dimension of the conflict, but the need for secrecy is just a reminder that Israel's conflict with the Arab world is far from over. Whenever necessary, even non-Arab players—Iran and Türkiye—do not hesitate to capitalise on the Arab sentiments against Israel. And Libya is the latest reminder.

Bypolls in 7 seats across 6 states peaceful

■ Opposition INDIA alliance's first electoral test ■ Results may have a bearing on 2024 Lok Sabha elections

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

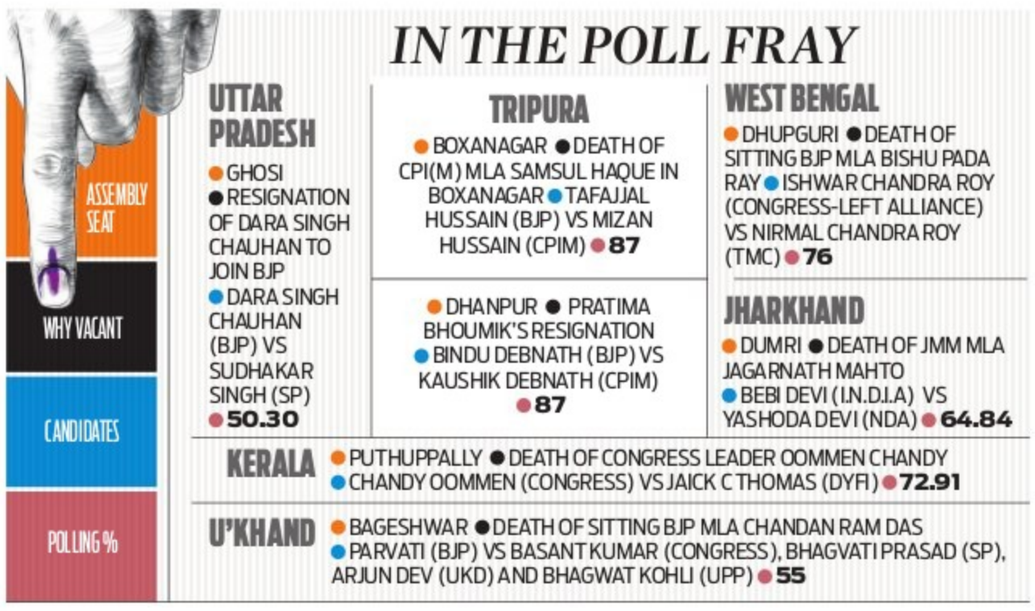
THE bypoll for seven assembly seats in five states — Uttarakhand, Jharkhand, Kerala, Tripura, West Bengal and Jharkhand — passed off peacefully on Tuesday.

The high-pitched battle, ahead of next general elections between the BJP-led NDA and the opposition bloc INDIA, is keenly watched as the results are likely to have a bearing on the general elections in 2024.

The bypoll was held for two seats, namely Boxanagar and Dhanpur, in BJP-ruled Tripura. Nearly 87 per cent voter turnout was recorded till the end of polling, an official said. Polling was largely peaceful, barring an incident near Mohanbhog sub-zonal office under Dhanpur constituency where six youths were injured, officials said.

Villagers set fire to five motorcycles, triggering tension, but the situation was brought under control, PTI reported quoting a police officer.

The by-election in Uttar Pradesh's Ghosi saw the INDIA alliance putting up a united front. Voting was moderate at around 50.30 per cent.



Around 50 per cent polling per cent was registered in the Ghosi seat, which is witnessing a direct contest between BJP's Dara Singh Chouhan and SP's Sudharkar Singh.

In Uttarakhand, more than 55 per cent of the electorate cast their votes to seal the fate of five candidates in the fray for the Bageshwar assembly seat. Polling was peaceful with no untoward incidents reported from anywhere.

A total of 64.84 per cent of 2.98 lakh voters exercised their franchise in the by-election to Dumri assembly seat in Jharkhand, said an Election Commision official. The polling percentage was slightly less than in 2019, when 69.74 per cent of the electorate cast their votes in the constituency.

The election passed off peacefully across 199 polling booths in Giridih and 174 booths in Bokaro districts.

The BSP has kept itself away from the poll and altogether 10 candidates were in the fray.

In Kerala's Puthuppally constituency, voters turned up in large numbers. Within the first four hours of voting, there was a turnout of more than 50.6 per cent. The UDF level alleged that there was slow polling in some select booths and people had to wait for several hours to vote. LDF candidate Jaick C Thomas said if there has been any delay in the polling process in some booths then it should be investigated.

Dhupguri assembly seat in West Bengal went to polls, which was necessitated by the death of its sitting BJP MLA Bishu Pada Ray. CPI(M)'s Ishwar Chandra Roy is contesting as the candidate of the Congress-Left alliance, while the ruling TMC has fielded Nirmal Chandra Roy, a teacher by profession. The BJP has nominated Tapasi Roy in the seat. Roy is the widow of a CRPF jawan who died fighting terrorists in Kashmir a few years back.

Dhupguri, a scheduled caste-reserved seat, has nearly 50 per cent Rajbanshi people and 15 per cent minority population.

The BJP had snatched the constituency from the TMC in the 2021 assembly polls.

No bilateral meet at ASEAN summit in Jakarta likely

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi will have no bilateral meetings in Jakarta visit to attend the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) India Summit and the 18th East Asia Summit (EAS).

"The Prime Minister's visit will be rather short as he has to be back for the G20 Summit. So, due to shortage of time, there will be no bilateral meeting that he will have during his visit," said Secretary-East, Saurabh Kumar in the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) in response to a query by this newspaper.

Meanwhile, Indonesia has adjusted the timings of both the summits to facilitate PM Modi to attend them as he has to return for the G20 Summit. American President Joe Biden will be in India when the PM returns (late on September 7) and the two leaders have a scheduled bilateral meeting on September 8.

"Indonesia has been kind to advance the timings of the EAS to make it easier for PM Modi to attend. Earlier, the EAS meeting was scheduled for the afternoon but it was adjusted. From 9 am to 10 am will be the ASEAN-India Summit and after a short gap of 15 minutes, the EAS meeting will be held," said Kumar.

ON AGENDA

In the ASEAN-India Summit, leaders are likely to review their relations in areas ranging from maritime security to digital economy. A new initiative on maritime security is expected to be among key outcomes of the ASEAN-India Summit.

In the ASEAN-India Summit, leaders are likely to review their relations in areas ranging from maritime security to the digital economy and provide directions for future cooperation.

A new initiative on maritime security is expected to be among key outcomes of the ASEAN-India Summit.

This will be the first ASEAN-India Summit since the two sides elevated their relations to a comprehensive strategic partnership in 2022, and the focus since then has been on maritime security, cyber security, digital economy and emerging areas of cooperation. An Asean-India defence ministers' meeting was held last November and the two sides conducted their first maritime exercise in May.

Modi will leave for the Indonesian capital city on Wednesday evening and will return late on Thursday.

The 10-member countries of ASEAN are Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, Brunei, Vietnam, Laos, Myanmar and Cambodia. The ties between India and ASEAN have been on a significant upswing in the last few years with focus being on boosting cooperation in the areas of trade and investment as well as security and defence.

SC reserves verdict on Article 370, says will study Lone's allegiance to India

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

FOLLOWING a marathon hearing for 16 days, the Supreme Court on Tuesday reserved its verdict in batch of pleas challenging the Centre's decision to abrogate Article 370 of the Constitution and scrapping special status granted to the state of Jammu and Kashmir (J&K).

"We must end it with a vote of thanks to the bar," a five-judge bench, headed by CJI DY Chandrachud, said after it heard the lawyers for the petitioners in their final submissions. The bench also included Justices SK Kaul, Sanjiv Khanna, BR Gavai and Surya Kant.

The bench while reserving verdict said that it would analyse Lok Sabha MP Mohammad Akbar Lone's affidavit swearing allegiance to the Constitution and recognising J&K as India's integral part.

Lone in the affidavit filed in compliance of its September 4 order on Tuesday had said he has taken oath in Parliament to owe allegiance to Constitution and uphold India's unity and integrity. "That I reiterate the oath taken while being sworn in as Member of Parliament to preserve and uphold the provisions of the Constitution of India and to protect the territorial integrity of the Nation," the affidavit stated.

Taking objection to Lone's affidavit, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta while urging the court to make some observations regarding his conduct said, "This is adding insult to injury to the nation. Your lordships may read what is not written."

The petitioners were represented through battery of senior advocates Kapil Sibal, Gopal Subramanium, Zaffar Shah, Rajeev Dhavan, Dushyant Dave, Chander Uday Singh, Dinesh Dwivedi, Shekhar Naphade, Nitya Ramakrishnan, Gopal Sankaranarayanan, Menaka Guruswamy, Prashanto Chandra Sen and Sanjay Parikh. They questioned legislature's power for recommending abrogation of Article 370 as per the J & K Constitution and argued that President's rule could not have been be invoked for decimating democracy.

It was also argued that Article 370 had assumed permanence and was no longer a 'temporary' provision post the dissolution of the J&K Constituent Assembly in 1957. "Parliament had no power under Article 3 of the Constitution to convert a state into a Union Territory," it was argued.

Supporting the abrogation, the Centre through Attorney General for India R Venkataramani, Solicitor General of India Tushar Mehta, Additional Solicitor General KM Nataraj, ASG Vikramjeet Banerjee and Advocate Kanu Agarwal argued that its continued existence could not be seen as a distortion of its original purpose.

Railways takes stock of staff's health, medicines taken on duty

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

IN a first, the Indian Railways will conduct a study on the impact of medicines being taken by its employees on duty to treat their lifestyle diseases. The move aims to determine whether the medicines taken by the staff on duty has an impact on the safe operation of trains or not.

The Railway Board has directed all its zonal offices to collect and share information on the lifestyle diseases of the drivers and guards in particular, and what medicines they take while on duty.

ZONAL OFFICES INSTRUCTED

The Railway Board has directed all its zonal offices to collect and share information on the lifestyle diseases of the drivers and guards in particular, and what medicines they take while on duty. The move aims to determine whether the medicines taken by the staff on duty has an impact on the safe operation of trains or not.

"This is aimed at studying in detail if the medicines taken by the drivers or guards of trains, persons on signal duty, or others in works related to operations make any impact on their performances and on safe train operations or not. This will give a new kind of information to the railway to make any supplementary arrangements," said a senior railway officer.

On August 31 this year, the Railway Board had sent a directive to the chiefs of each of the 17 zonal railways as well as the metro railways at Kolkata and Konkan Railway Corporation Limited, stating that the Railway Board is examining issues related to the use of medicines and its effect on the staff.

It is said that the loco pilots and guards have to perform a tough routine running duty and face high stress. Major lifestyles diseases such as diabetes, high blood pressure, hypertension and severe mental stress due to their harsh working conditions were having a bad impact on the safe running of trains as well alertness on duty.

Quoting from the directive, sources said the Railway Board has directed the zonal railways to provide the data along with their remarks regarding "various types of lifestyle and job-related diseases amongst the running staff" and "impact of running duty on the lifestyle of train crew".

Along with these details, the rail zones have also been asked to provide their suggestions and comments on whether the current system of periodical medical examination of the running staff needs any review with changing times.

The Railway Board has directed the zones to provide "suggestions or remarks" by September 10 this year for further move.

President Murmu confers national awards on 75 teachers

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

NOT only did Archana Nooguri motivated tribal children from Telangana to come to school and study, but also she collected the furniture, water, LED projectors, additional classes and even computers through donations for the school.

As the school was remote, she arranged an auto rickshaw with her own money to pick up poor students aged 5-10 years.

The children wrote stories of their forefathers in their own language. "The children's stories would soon come out in the form of a book," Nooguri, a head teacher in the primary school, told this paper.

Nooguri is among the 75 teachers who were conferred the prestigious National Teachers Award by President Droupadi Murmu on the teachers' day on Tuesday.

China envoy to Nepal calls India 'unfriendly, unbeneficial neighbour'

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

CHINESE ambassador to Nepal, Chen Song, has projected India as a country that isn't friendly towards its neighbours in general, especially Nepal.

Speaking at a programme in Kathmandu, with Speaker of the House of Representatives Devraj Ghimire among the audience, Song advised Nepal to tread cautiously with India.

Pitching for better ties between China and Nepal, Song spoke derogatorily about what he called 'India's Influence in Nepal'. "Unfortunately, you have a neighbour like India. It is a huge market, huge potential you can tap into. But at the same time, India's policy towards Nepal and other neighbours are not so friendly and not so beneficial to Nepal," he said.

The ambassador tried to underplay India's role and relation with Nepal, which has been bound by history, culture and tradition, besides trade and development.

"Last fiscal, you exported 10 billion rupees worth of electricity to India. How much you imported from India? My Nepalese friends, you imported 19 billion Nepalese rupees of electricity from India. You had a deficit in electricity trade, one of the products you are proud of, and you think that will bring you economic independence," he said.

India and China both have a significant presence in Nepal across most sectors of economy. This speech by the ambassador was done with the obvious intent of downplaying India to gain for China.

BJP to win 150 seats in MP, says Shah

In Rajasthan, BJP hopes to gain from yatras & strives to portray it has not forgotten Raje

ANURAAG SINGH & RAJESH ASNANI @Bhopal/Jaipur

IN the season of yatras in poll-bound MP and Rajasthan, the BJP expects a rich electoral harvest — in Madhya Pradesh, the party sees 16 years of Shivraj Singh Chouhan as a perfect period to gain invincibility, while in neighbouring Rajasthan, it strives to portray it has not forgotten Vasundhara Raje. For the fifth time in less than two months, Union Home Minister Amit Shah flagged off on Tuesday the party's third Jan Ashirwad Yatra from Mandla district of the tribal-dominated Mahakoshal region.

In the afternoon, his visit to Sheopur district of Gwalior-Chambal region to flag off the fourth Yatra was cut short by bad weather. He flew to Delhi from Gwalior after addressing a rally over the phone.

Addressing the rally in Mandla district after flagging the third of the five Jan Ashirwad Yatras, Shah exuded confidence that the party would retain power in the state with 150 seats. The MP Assembly has 230 seats, out of which BJP currently has 127.

He showered praise on the over 18 years-long BJP regime in MP (Shivraj Singh Chouhan has been the CM for 16 years) for "transforming MP from a BIMARU to Bemisal (unparalleled) state."

He was full of praise for the Chouhan government for the literacy campaign launched in this tribal-dominated area which ensured Mandla to be declared as a fully functional literate district.

Quoting former PM Dr Manmohan Singh's statement that the minorities have the first right over the country's resources, Shah said the policy of appeasement at the Centre changed after Narendra Modi came to power in 2014.

Though Shah, the union minister Jyotiraditya Scindia and CM Chouhan addressed the gathering in Sheopur from Gwalior over phone only, Shah promised to be in the town as the poll fever rises.

In Jaipur, the party launched its fourth Parivartan Yatra in Rajasthan from the revered Gogamedi site in Hanumangarh on Tuesday. Union Road and Transport Minister Nitin Gadkari flagged off the yatra chariot. Gadkari spoke about the developmental milestones achieved during the tenure of Vasundhara Raje as the Chief Minister. The party this time has not projected its chief ministerial candidate and has sought to trust on "collective leadership."

Shivraj to make Hindu religious town new district

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bhopal

IN run up to the assembly polls in two months, chief minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan announced making Hindu religious town Maihar a new district. This is the fourth new district which the CM has announced in less than 50 days.

Talking to journalists in Bhopal, the CM said, "We've decided to turn Goddess Sharda's land Maihar into a new district. The process of making Maihar a new district is being started from today only."

Earlier on July 20, Chouhan had announced making Nagda (which has been part of Ujjain district) a separate district, while on August 21 he had announced creating Pichhore district out of existing Shivpuri district. Three days later on August 24, Chouhan had announced making Pandhurna (which forms part of Kamal Nath's pocket-borough Chhindwara district) a new district.

After Tuesday's announcement, Maihar will become the 57th district of the state.

HC puts recruitment of 26K assistant teachers in J'khand on hold

MUKESH RANJAN @Ranchi

THE Jharkhand High Court on Tuesday stayed the ongoing process for the appointment of 26,000 assistant teachers in the state. The order was passed by a division bench of Chief Justice Sanjaya Kumar Mishra and Justice Ananda Sen while hearing a petition challenging the 50% reservation given to para-teachers in the recruitment of assistant teachers.

The court has also issued notice to the Jharkhand Staff Selection Commission (JSSC), State Education Project Council (JEPC) and the state government to file a reply within four weeks. "Until then the recruitment process has to be put on hold," said advocate appearing on behalf of the JSSC, Sanjay Piparwal.

The court was hearing a petition challenging the 50% quota in the recruitment of assistant teachers in the state, Piparwal said. Petitioner Bahadur Mahto said the benefit of 50% reservation was not given to the Block Resource Person (BRP) and Cluster Resource Person (CRP), working on a contract basis in the appointment of assistant teachers under the policy formulated in 2023. However, there was a similar provision in the policy made in 2022. Later, the state government formulated a policy and ended the reservation given to the employees of the education department.

In this revised policy, there is a provision of 50% reservation in the appointment of assistant professor only to the para-teachers. Others working with the education department on a contractual basis do not come under this purview.

Mahto said in the 2023 policy, there is a provision for 50 per cent reservation only for the appointment of Assistant Teachers. There should also be a provision of 50% reservation for other employees working with the education department.

Plea against 50% quota

Editors Guild terms Manipur CM's statement intimidatory

EXPRESS NEWS SERVIICE @New Delhi

THE Editors Guild of India on Tuesday said Manipur chief minister N Biren Singh's statements in response to its report on the media coverage of the ethnic violence were "intimidatory" and urged him to close the FIRs registered against its president and three members.

The Guild said the CM's labelling of the journalists' body as "anti-state" and "anti-national" was deeply disturbing.

The Manipur Police on Monday registered an FIR against Guild president Seema Mustafa and three members of the fact-finding team that visited the state to examine the media coverage of the ethnic violence.

"The Editors Guild of India is disturbed by the registration of FIRs by the Manipur Police against the Guild president as well as the members of the fact-finding team that visited Manipur to study and document media's coverage of ethnic clashes in the state," a statement said.

The Guild said the underlying idea of the report was to enable introspection and reflection on the media's conduct in such a sensitive situation.

Pawar's 'power' punch to BJP in Maha rally on 'misuse' of agencies

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

NCP chief Sharad Pawar at a rally in Jalgaon on Tuesday criticized Prime Minister Narendra Modi for his misuse of central agencies to cause trouble in opposition parties and blamed him for breaking Shiv Sena and NCP apart.

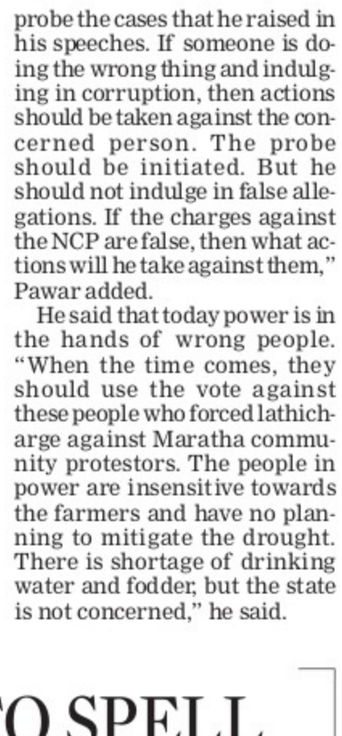
After Ajit Pawar's revolt, the NCP chief started touring the state. He earlier addressed rallies in Yeola, Beed and Kolhapur and on Tuesday, he addressed a massive rally in Jalgaon.

Sharad said that Modi has been in power for the last nine years, which is an achievement. However, he misuses the central agencies like ED, CBI and IT to target the political opponents and break their parties.

"Modi rather than using the power for the welfare of the people, he has been misusing the power to frame them in false cases. Our former home minister Anil Deshmukh was not in fault but he was jailed. Similarly, Nawab Malik was framed and put behind bars. The power should have been used to uplift people's lives, not to target them," Pawar said.

He pointed out that Modi in his Bhopal rally, criticised the NCP and raised the irrigation and state co-operative bank scam issue. "I appeal to Modi to probe the cases that he raised in his speeches. If someone is doing the wrong thing and indulging in corruption, then actions should be taken against the concerned person. The probe should be initiated. But he should not indulge in false allegations. If the charges against the NCP are false, then what actions will he take against them," Pawar added.

He said that today power is in the hands of wrong people. "When the time comes, they should use the vote against these people who forced lathicharge against Maratha community protestors. The people in power are insensitive towards the farmers and have no planning to mitigate the drought. There is shortage of drinking water and fodder, but the state is not concerned," he said.



Didi, Guv spar over university appointments

PRANAB MONDAL @Kolkata

FACE-off between Mamata Banerjee and governor CV Ananda Bose hit a new low on Tuesday with the West Bengal chief minister accusing the constitutional head of the state of interfering in the affairs of the state-run universities and threatening to block funds for universities in Bengal.

Upping the ante against Bose for his recent decisions of appointing interim vice-chancellors in seven universities and initiating process for nine other institutions, Mamata also threatened to stage a sit-in demonstration in front of Raj Bhavan if he continues to act against the federal structure and disregard state government.

"Have you ever heard of a vice-chancellor being changed in the middle of the night? He is running Raj Bhavan like it is his zamindari. If they obey what you are doing, I will create a financial blockade. Let us see how the vice-chancellors are given salary," she said.

Questions over Biden's India trip as wife Jill tests Covid+

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

DOUBTS began swirling over US President Joe Biden's trip to India for the G20 summit after his wife Jill tested positive for Covid-19 on Tuesday.

The White House in a statement said following the First Lady's positive test for Covid-19, the President was administered the test. His result was negative and he will continue to test at regular intervals this week to monitor symptons. The First Lady's symptoms are mild, the statement added. "As of now there is no indication that President Biden won't come to India as per his original schedule," said an official at the US Embassy here.

Biden is scheduled to arrive on Thursday. He has a bilateral summit with Prime Minister Narendra Modi. The G20 Summit will take place on Saturday and Sunday. Whether he would take another Covid test on arrival is not clear. Earlier, Russian President Vladimir Putin and Chinese President Xi Jingping had announced their no-show. German Chancellor Olaf Scholz, who had confirmed his presence for G20, suffered an eye injury while he was jogging.

I.N.D.I.A ASKS GOVT TO SPELL OUT PARL SESSION AGENDA

PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

FLOOR leaders of the Opposition bloc, I.N.D.I.A, on Tuesday asked the Centre to spell out the agenda of the special Parliament session to be held from September 18 to 22.

The Opposition parties will attend the session but will raise key issues including price rise, unemployment, Manipur violence, etc.

Sources said party leader Sonia Gandhi will write to PM Narendra Modi for early passage of the women's reservation bill in the Lok Sabha. The Rajya Sabha has already passed it. The Opposition stance was decided at a dinner meeting convened by Congress chief Mallikarjun Kharge at his official residence for floor leaders of the parties of the I.N.D.I.A bloc. Leaders of various Opposition parties attended the dinner meeting.

Taking to micro blogging site X after the meeting, Kharge said I.N.D.I.A parties discussed the way forward for the special session and decided to keep the focus on raising people's issues. "Modi government is convening a special session of Parliament for the first time without spelling out the agenda. No one from any opposition party has been consulted or informed. This is not the way to run a democracy," he wrote.

Briefing reporters after the meeting, Congress deputy leader in the Lok Sabha Gaurav Gogoi said the government is keeping the country in the dark about the session's agenda.

SP, AAP shield I.N.D.I.A from Udhaya controversy

ENS @Lucknow / New Delhi/ Chennai

A day after the Trinamool Congress condemned DMK leader Udhayanidhi Stalin's call to 'eradicate Sanatan Dharma', two more Opposition parties came forward to distance themselves from the controversial comment.

On Tuesday, SP's national general secretary Ram Gopal Yadav termed the Tamil Nadu minister's comment "an individual's personal opinion", cautioning that it is not prudent for one to make disparaging comments on another's religion and faith.

Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal stressed on respecting every religion, adding that he follows Sanatana Dharma.

Commenting on the controversy, AIADMK leader Edappadi K Palaniswami said Udhayanidhi is trying to cover up his government's failures in maintaining law and order. Meanwhie, over 260 eminent citizens, including ex-judges and bureaucrats, have written to Chief Justice of India D Y Chandrachud urging him to take cognisance of the comment, calling it "hate speech".

Kim, Putin summit soon to discuss arms deal: US

However, Kremlin declined to confirm North Korean dictator's visit

WASHINGTON

A United States official said on Monday that North Korean leader Kim Jong Un may travel to Russia soon to meet with President Vladimir Putin as the Kremlin tries to acquire military equipment for use in its war in Ukraine.

The official, who spoke to AP on condition of anonymity, said the US expects Kim will make the trip within the month. The official said the US isn't sure exactly where or when the meeting would take place, but the Pacific port city of Vladivostok would be a likely possibility given its relative proximity to North Korea.

National Security Council spokeswoman Adrienne Watson noted on Monday that Russian Defence Minister Sergei Shoigu travelled to Pyongyang recently and had tried to persuade North Korea to sell artillery ammunition to Russia.

Shoigu, who in July visited North Korea, on Monday said Moscow was considering joint military drills with North Korea. "Why not? They are our neighbours," Shoigu was quoted as saying by the TASS news agency, when asked about the possible exercises.

Watson said, "We have information that Kim Jong Un expects these discussions to continue, to include leader-level diplomatic engagement in Russia." She added that the US is urging North Korea "to cease its arms negotiations with Russia and abide by the public commitments that Pyongyang has made to not provide or sell arms to Russia."

Shoigu said on Monday that the two countries may hold joint war games. The New York Times first reported that Kim planned to meet with Putin in Russia this month.

However, the Kremlin on Tuesday declined to confirm a possible summit between Putin and Kim Jong Un, which US officials have said they expect.

"No, we cannot" confirm this, Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov said, when he was asked if Kim would meet Putin soon. "We have nothing to say on this."

Meanwhile, Shoigu on Tuesday said that Zaporizhzhia of southeast Ukraine has become the most recent hot spot for battles in the 18-month war.

Shoigu told military officers that Ukraine has brought up reserve brigades there that were trained by Kyiv's Western allies. He offered no evidence for his claim.

The Institute for the Study of War, a US-based think tank, citing geolocated footage, said on Tuesday that Ukrainian light infantry has advanced beyond some of the anti-tank ditches and dense minefields that make up Russia's layered defenses in Zaporizhzhia. Agencies

900 KILLED BY CLUSTER BOMB ATTACKS IN UKRAINE

EXTENSIVE USE OF CLUSTER MUNITIONS

Since Russia invaded Ukraine in February last year, it has "extensively" used stocks of old cluster munitions and newly developed ones, the Cluster Munition Coalition (CMC) said in an annual report, adding that Ukrainian forces also used such weapons "to a lesser extent"

LASTING THREAT

Cluster munitions can be dropped from planes or fired from artillery before exploding in mid-air and scattering bomblets over a wide area

They also pose a lasting threat, as many fail to explode on impact, effectively acting as landmines that can go off years later

Twenty-six of the casualties recorded in Ukraine last year were caused by such remnants

Over 900 people were killed or injured by cluster munitions in Ukraine last year amid Russian use of the widely-banned weapons, propelling global casualty figures to record levels, a report showed on Tuesday

1,172 DEATHS GLOBALLY

The Ukrainian casualties accounted for the vast majority of the global figure, which rose to 1,172 in 2022—the highest since CMC began reporting in 2010

A full 890 of the casualties registered in Ukraine—294 deaths and 596 injuries—happened during attacks using cluster munitions

A 10-year-old kid lost her hand to a cluster bomb in 2022 | AP

ATTACKS IN SYRIA AND MYANMAR

1. Beyond Ukraine, cluster munition attacks were registered last year in Syria and Myanmar, with such attacks across the three countries causing 987 casualties in total
2. At least 185 people were meanwhile killed or wounded by cluster munition remnants across Ukraine, Syria and Myanmar and five other countries: Azerbaijan, Iraq, Laos, Lebanon and Yemen, the report said
3. That compares to 149 casualties in 2021, it said, pointing out that kids make up 70% of all casualties from cluster munition remnants

DEATH OF CIVILIANS

Ukraine had registered no cluster munition casualties for several years but recorded 916 deaths and injuries last year, nearly all of them involving civilians

855 of the known casualties in Ukraine—93.3%—were civilians, while 58 were military and three were deminers

Hole in Great Wall of China: 2 held for digging shortcut to cut travel time

BEIJING

TWO persons have been detained after using an excavator to dig a hole in the Great Wall of China, state broadcaster CCTV said.

Police in Shanxi province followed tracks made by machinery used to dig a shortcut through a segment of the wall—remains of the immense structure built by China's emperors to deter foreign invaders.

The suspects admitted under questioning that they had used a digger to create a shortcut in the wall in a bid to reduce local travel time, the state media reported.

Construction of the Great Wall, which is split into sections that in total stretch for thousands of kilometres, first began in the third century BC and continued for centuries.

The section of the Great Wall affected, situated about a six-hour drive west of central Beijing, dates back to China's Ming Dynasty of the 14th through 17th centuries.

Broadcaster CCTV reported on Monday that the suspects had caused "irreversible damage" to the Ming-era wall, which was described as a "relatively intact" section of significant research value.

As per BBC, the 38-year-old man and 55-year-old woman were working near the affected area, the 32nd Great Wall.

Images on Chinese state TV showed the aftermath of the scene, where a dusty road had been cut through a long, raised section of ground that appeared to be the remnants of the ancient barrier.

"Currently, the two suspects have been criminally detained in accordance with the law, and the case is continuing to be investigated," state broadcaster CCTV reported. Agencies

CRACKDOWN

French schools ban Muslim dress abaya, girls sent home

PARIS

FRENCH schools sent dozens of girls home for refusing to remove their abayas—an overgarment from the shoulders to the feet worn by Muslim women—on the first day of the school year, a government minister said on Tuesday.

Defying a ban on the Muslim dress, nearly 300 girls showed up on Monday morning wearing an abaya, Gabriel Attal told the BFM broadcaster. Most agreed to change out of the dress, but 67 refused and were sent home, he said.

The government announced last month it was banning the abaya in schools, saying it broke the rules on secularism in education that have already seen Muslim headscarves banned on the grounds they constitute a display of religious affiliation.

Attal said the girls refused entry were given a letter addressed to their families saying that "secularism is not a constraint, it is a liberty." If they showed up at school again wearing the dress there would be a "new dialogue," the minister said.

Late Monday, President Emmanuel Macron defended the controversial measure, saying there was a "minority" in France who "hijack a religion and challenge the republic and secularism," leading to the "worst consequences" such as the murder three years ago of teacher Samuel Paty for showing Mohamed caricatures during a civics education class, he said in an interview with Hugo-Decrypte. Macron said he is in favour of "experimenting" with uniforms in order to "inform public debate."

He said another experimental option could be for children to wear similar outfits, such as "a pair of jeans, a T-shirt and a jacket." "We certainly can have things that are more acceptable to teenagers (than uniforms)," Macron said. "It may seem a little less strict from a disciplinary point of view." Agencies

Pastor shot in Pak, days after mob attack on Christians

LAHORE

A pastor was shot at and wounded by an unknown assailant in Pakistan's Punjab province, weeks after a number of churches and Christian homes were burnt down by a mob on blasphemy allegations.

Reverend Father Eleazar Vicky, who serves at the Myong-Sang Naserth church in Jaranwala tehsil of Faisalabad district, survived the assassination attempt on Sunday evening while returning home from the church.

According to police, Father Eleazar was returning home from the church when an unidentified bearded man shot and injured him. He was shifted to a hospital where a doctor operated on him and removed a bullet from his right arm. His condition is said to be out of danger.

Police officer Navid Ahmad told reporters on Tuesday that a case has been registered against unidentified suspects on the pastor's complaint.

"We have deployed police personnel for the security of Pastor Eleazar and rounded up a couple of suspects," Ahmad said, adding that the security of churches has also been beefed up. The pastor, in his statement to police, said that an objectionable religious slogan in Arabic was written on the outer wall of the church. Besides, he was also mentioned as a blasphemer.

"I informed the police, which whitewashed it. A few days ago, when I went to drop my son off at school, a few bearded people intercepted me and said, 'As our written slogans have been deleted from the wall of your church, soon you will also be deleted'," he said. PTI

Pakistan army chief assures of bringing foreign investment

ISLAMABAD

SIGNALLING the military's key role in Pakistan, army chief General Asim Munir has held a series of meetings with the business community, promising all-out efforts to bring in foreign investment worth billions of dollars to the country.

Gen Munir held a marathon four-hour meeting on Saturday with 50-odd prominent businessmen, including Zubair Motiwala, chairman, Businessmen Group (BMG), Tariq Yousuf, president, Karachi Chamber of Commerce and Industry and Irfan Iqbal Sheikh, president of the Federation of Pakistan Chambers of Commerce & Industry (FPCCI).

The army chief updated the business community about his recent visit to Saudi Arabia and said Saudi Crown Prince Mohammad Bin Salman assured him of investing $25 billion in Pakistan under the Special Investment Facilitation Council (SIFC), the Dawn reported on Tuesday.

In the same meeting, Gen Munir also "assured businessmen of bringing $25-$30 billion investment from Qatar and Kuwait in his next visit."

In another report by the Geo News, FPCCI president Sheikh said that the army chief had told the business community that Saudi Arabia had assured Pakistan of investment in IT, minerals, agriculture and defence.

General Asim Munir, Pakistan army chief

"Munir requested for $10 billion to be kept in the State Bank of Pakistan (SBP). This will be returned in the form of the Pakistani rupee or goods so that the foreign exchange could increase," Sheikh said.

The army chief said he was banking on the Special Investment Facilitation Council (SIFC) to do away with the bureaucratic hurdles, which were identified by the Saudi Crown Prince as obstacles to investment.

Interestingly, quoting sources, the media also reported that Gen Munir had also hinted at not going towards the IMF for any new programme as "the fund does not give any permission to work freely and an increase in power rates was a part of the programme." PTI

Cuba uncovers trafficking for Russia-Ukraine war

Havana: Cuba has identified an alleged human trafficking ring aimed at recruiting its citizens to fight in Russia's war in Ukraine, the foreign ministry said on Monday. The government was working to dismantle a "trafficking network that operates from Russia to incorporate Cuban citizens living there, and even some from Cuba, into the military forces involved in military operations in Ukraine," the ministry said in a statement.

Myanmar's chair snatched, won't lead ASEAN in '26

JAKARTA

SOUTHEAST Asian leaders decided on Tuesday that Myanmar won't take over the rotating leadership of their regional bloc as scheduled in 2026, in the latest blow to efforts by its ruling generals to gain international recognition after violently seizing power in 2021.

The Philippines agreed to take over the regional bloc's chairmanship in 2026 at an ASEAN summit hosted by Indonesia on Tuesday, Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos Jr. said in a statement, citing what he told fellow leaders in the closed-door meetings.

"It is my pleasure to announce that the Philippines is ready to take the helm and chair ASEAN in 2026," Marcos told his ASEAN counterparts in Jakarta, the statement said.

An official ASEAN statement confirmed the decision to hand the chair to the Philippines in 2026 and affirmed group's commitment to a five-point plan for restoring peace and stability in Myanmar.

Marcos did not explain why Myanmar lost the prestigious yearlong ASEAN chairmanship, but two ASEAN diplomats told AP that it was related to the continuing civil strife in the country and fears that the bloc's relations with the United States and the European Union, among others, might be undermined because of their non-recognition of the military-led government in Myanmar.

Western governments led by the US have condemned the Myanmar army's ouster of Aung San Suu Kyi's democratically elected government in 2021 and have demanded her immediate release from years long detention along with other officials. Resistance to the military takeover has escalated into what some UN experts have described as a civil war. AP

LANDMARK JUDGMENT

HK's top court rules in favour of recognising same-sex unions

HONG KONG

HONG Kong's top court ruled in favour of recognising same-sex partnerships on Tuesday and gave the government two years to come up with a legal framework, but stopped short of granting full marriage rights to city's LGBTQ community.

LGBTQ activists have won piecemeal victories in court over the past decade that struck down discriminatory government policies on visas, taxes and housing benefits.

But the case brought by jailed pro-democracy activist Jimmy Sham is first time Hong Kong's Court of Final Appeal has directly addressed the issue of same-sex marriage.

The court ruled the Hong Kong government violated its "obligation... to establish an alternative framework for legal recognition of same-sex partnerships...". It gave authorities two years to comply with the ruling, leaving the specifics of the framework to be decided by the government and the opposition-free legislature. The court stopped short of full support for same-sex marriage, siding instead with lower courts in saying, under Hong Kong's Basic Law, "constitutional freedom of marriage... is confined to opposite-sex marriage."

Sebi targets 1-hour trade settlements by end of this fiscal

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

THE Securities and Exchange Board of India is aiming to launch one-hour settlement of trades by March next year and instantaneous settlement by October 2024, its Chairperson Madhabi Puri Buch said on Tuesday.

"India is the first jurisdiction in the world that has moved to T+1 (trade date plus one day) settlement. We are now talking about a one-hour settlement and that will be a stepping stone to instantaneous settlement. This will be in a reasonably short period of time," said Buch at the Global Fintech Fest.

"Technology already exists to launch up to one-hour settlement; we just have to make it happen. For instantaneous settlement, the system needs some more technological developments, which could take another 6-8 months," she added.

Earlier this year in July, Sebi Chairpers had said that instant settlement in Indian stock markets is not very far.

Under T+1 settlement, the transfer of securities and funds takes place the following day of the trade. In the one-hour settlement system, shares will be credited to the demat account within an hour.

The early settlement facility will be optional for investors and they can opt out of it.

The capital market regulator is also looking to streamline secondary market operations. The regulator is planning to implement an ASBA (Application Supported by Blocked Amount) model for the secondary market, similar to the process used in intitial public offering (IPOs).

This change is expected to be rolled out as early as January 2024, making secondary market investments more secure and efficient.

'100 BN MONTHLY UPI TRANSACTIONS POSSIBLE'

MUMBAI: India has the potential to do 100 billion Unified Payments Interface (UPI) transactions a month, a top official from the National Payments Corporation of India said on Tuesday. This would be a 10-time growth over the 10 billion transactions achieved by the 2016-launched platform in August. Dilip Asbe, chief executive officer and managing director of NPCI, said there are 350 million UPI users at present and pegged the growth opportunity in merchants and users at 3 times more. "If you take the combined effect, we have a 10x opportunity from where we stand," Dilip Asbe said speaking at the Global Fintech Fest here. ENS

FM calls for sustainable financial eco-system

Sitharaman says discussions are on to regulate crypto assets; seeks co-operation of all other countries

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FINANCE Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Tuesday called for global cooperation and collaboration for a responsible financial eco-system.

Delivering the inaugural address at the Global Fintech Fest, she said discussions are underway on a global framework to regulate crypto assets, adding that cryptocurrencies could not be regulated efficiently without the co-operation of all countries.

"India's (G20) presidency has put on the table key issues related to regulating or understanding that there should be a framework for handling issues related to crypto assets," said the minister. "Technology is a powerful tool through which we are going to bring a lot of changes and influence a responsible and inclusive financial ecosystem. But for technology to be effective, global cooperation is absolutely critical," added Sitharaman.

The Union Finance Minister also said that threats to global financial ecosystem, like physical border threats, cyber threats, crypto threats, drug menace, tax havens and round-tripping of resources and tax evasions need to be deliberated upon. She asked banks and other financial institutions to ensure that their customers must update nominees to help resolve the problem of unclaimed money in future.

"I want the banking system, the financial ecosystem including the mutual funds, stock markets to keep in mind that when someone deals with his (customer's) money, the organisations will have to think about the future and ensure that customers nominate their heirs, give the name and address," she added.

She also asked fintech companies to invest heavily in robust security measures, utilising advanced encryption and other measures to protect user data and financial transactions.

A secured system is what will build trust and therefore that is a must for the financial ecosystem to truly flourish, she said, adding, India can lead in making the financial ecosystem inclusive, resilient and sustainable as we have the tools but we have to make it responsible.

She said fintechs have become a more robust and dynamic financial inclusion tool. On how the fintech players have helped the country, the minister said in about last four years, the number of demat accounts has increased by 2.5 times from 4.1 crore in 2019-20 to 10 crore in 2022-23.

On the increasing number of income tax return filings, she said the August data signals that the formalisation of the economy is now really wide and it is accessing so many different areas.

MOODY'S CUTS 2024 GROWTH FORECAST

Global rating agency Moody's has reduced 2024 economic growth forecasts for China. Moody's expects China's economy to grow at 5% in 2023 as expected earlier and downwardly revised its 2024 GDP to 4.0% from 4.5%. The ratings agency cites low consumer confidence as holding back household spending while adding that the economic and policy uncertainty will continue to weigh on business decisions. Moody's also flagged hardships for the Federal Reserve (Fed) in defending the 2% inflation target should the current economic transition prevail while keeping the 1% US growth forecasts for 2024. The country's economy has not yet picked up from the slump it faced during the Covid-19 pandemic. Since then various sectors such as real estate and export-driven sectors have been witnessing slowdown.

CENTRAL BANK TO REVISE GROWTH, INFLATION FORECAST

The economic growth and inflation of Thailand for 2023 are expected to be lower than previous forecast on account of softer-than-expected exports and tourism spending, the chief of the country's central bank said on Tuesday. The country has been impacted by slowing global growth, a faltering recovery in its main trading partner China, and falling investor confidence because of prolonged political uncertainty after an election in May. Tourism is a key driver of growth for the country, accounting for about 12% of GDP before the pandemic. The economy "is still in recovery, even though it's weaker than expected, Bank of Thailand (BOT) Governor Sethaput Suthiwartnarueput said during on Tuesday. About 29 million foreign arrivals still expected throughout the year, he said. As per him, updated forecasts due later this month would see downward revisions to the earlier projection of 3.6% economic growth for 2023 and headline inflation of 2.5%.

PHILIPPINE

INFLATION RATE QUICKENS TO 5.3%

Inflation in Philippines accelerated to 5.3% in August from 4.7% reported in July, according to the data released by the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) on Tuesday. Dennis Mapa, in a press conference, said the higher prices of rice and vegetables propelled the inflation in food prices higher. The uptrend in the overall inflation in August 2023 as the food and non-alcoholic beverages rose 8.1% in August from 6.3% in July. Rice inflation jumped 8.7% in August from 4.2% in July. Vegetable inflation increased 31.9% from 21.8% on account of production losses from the enhanced monsoon rains and typhoon. With the elevated level of inflation in August, the national average inflation from January to August came at 6.6%, Mapa added. According to Mapa, the transport inflation increased 0.2% from an annual fall of 4.7% in July. The recreation, sport, culture index, which rose 4.9% in August from 4.7% in July, also contributed to the elevated inflation rate in August.

PV inventory high in showrooms on hope of good festive sale

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

ANTICIPATING a bumper festive season, passenger vehicle (PV) makers have filled inventory at dealer showrooms to an 'alarming' level.

The Federation of Automobile Dealers Association (FADA) said on Tuesday that inventory levels for the passenger vehicle segment last month surpassed the 60-day threshold, establishing an all-time high even before the onset of the 42-day festive period.

The average inventory of PVs at the end of August ranged from 58-63 days, up from 50-55 days in July and 30-35 days in August last year. "It is alarming that inventory levels have exceeded a 60-day supply for the first time, even before the onset of the Navratri-Diwali festivities—a trend that necessitates vigilant monitoring by private vehicle original equipment manufacturers," said Manish Raj Singhania, FADA President.

Carmakers are expecting strong sales during the festival season, a period which accounts for nearly one-fourth of their annual sales. At present, the impact of semiconductor shortage on manufacturing activity has also subsided. Hence, they are producing more and reporting record monthly dispatches to dealerships.

A dealer showroom in New Delhi of a car company confirmed the high inventory level. The showroom manager said while demand for SUVs remains strong, they are finding few buyers for smaller cars. "We have conveyed the message to the OEM about low small car sales. We are likely to offer discounts and offers on them to avoid inventory build-up," the manager said while requesting anonymity.

While giving a near-term outlook, Fada adopted a cautious stance and said that low rainfall may impact rural demand during the upcoming festive season. According to the Indian Meteorological Department, August of 2023 was the driest August in 122 years. "In the 2W market, while a broader range of models is now available, subdued rural demand due to insufficient rainfall could temper sales growth," said FADA.

PV INVENTORY BY AUGUST-END AT 58-63 DAYS

The average inventory of PVs at the end of August ranged from 58-63 days, up from 50-55 days in July and 30-35 days in August last year. "It is alarming that inventory levels have exceeded a 60-day supply for the first time, even before the onset of the Navratri-Diwali festivities—a trend that necessitates vigilant monitoring by private vehicle original equipment manufacturers," said Manish Raj Singhania, FADA President. India sprinter Hima Das has been provisionally suspended by the National Anti-Doping Agency (NADA) for three whereabout failures in 12 months, according to sources. SEEKING BALANCE IN WORLD

Fit-again Rahul in while Tilak, Prasidh and Sanju out as India name 15-member squad

FIROZ MIRZA
Express @ Asia Cup
PALLEKELE

AS was expected, there were no surprises in India's 15-member squad announced on Tuesday for the 2023 ODI World Cup in India from October 5 to November 19. "I think a lot of the guys picked themselves," Ajit Agarkar, chairman of selectors, told media persons here in Kandy. So true were his words as it was no-brainer to conclude that the same set of players, who were picked in the Asia Cup squad, will go on to represent the country in the quadrennial bash.

But KL Rahul's niggle made it interesting. India's first-choice wicketkeeper-batter, Rahul was making a comeback to the Indian squad after undergoing thigh surgery. So, when chief coach Rahul Dravid declared that his namesake would miss the first two group matches of the ongoing Asia Cup ahead of the tournament, it raised eyebrows.

With Ishan Kishan, who donned wicketkeeper's gloves in his absence, playing a vital knock of 82 against arch-rivals Pakistan in their first match, Rahul's fitness and his inclusion in the squad once again came under the spotlight.

"We had a couple of fitness issues that we had to look at, but all three (Rahul, Jasprit Bumrah and Shreyas Iyer), who had long-term injuries have come through," Agarkar said. "KL is looking good. We feel this gives us the best balance to try and do well. With KL, he was part of the camp in Bangalore, he looked really good there. He played a couple of games over the last two days. I think he kept for 50 overs and batted for around 50 overs too, so he looks good and we're happy to have him."

With Rahul clearing the fitness tests at the National Cricket Academy, he is set to join the squad in Colombo on Tuesday. It will be interesting to see who guards the stumps for the Men in Blue in the Super Four stage. They will take on Pakistan in their first game on Sunday. Agarkar said it's a good headache to have when two in-form players compete for a place in the team. "Kishan has played well recently. He plays well at the top. KL's record in ODIs is brilliant. We have two good options." Asked on the standby as only a 15-member squad was announced, the former India pacer said there are 17 guys here and KL is not here. "Those three guys are our cover. Tilak (Varma) is with us as well. You hope we don't have to change anything. We trust the 15 to do the job." Varma, pacer Prasidh Krishna and Sanju Samson are the three players Agarkar talked about. The trio was picked for the Asia Cup and expected to be standbys. Samson was a travelling reserve.

The only missing link in the squad appears to be a right-arm off-break bowler. Agarkar admitted there were discussions for including an offie in the team. "Clearly there will be discussions given we have both Ravindra Jadeja and Axar Patel who spin the ball into left-handers. Both give us depth in batting. Kuldeep Yadav takes the ball away. In 50-over cricket, perhaps you would ideally want an off-spinner but this gives us the best balance. Seamers tend to bowl a lot more in ODIs as compared to T20 cricket, and perhaps you're a little more under pressure if you don't have an offie, so we're happy with the guys we have."

While the last date to submit the provisional squad to the ICC was September 5, teams can make changes till September 28, which in turn gives the Indian team management time to assess performances of the selected individual before finalising the names. If they reach the final, India could play a total of six games in the Asia Cup followed by a three-match ODI series against Australia. Ahead of the World Cup, they will play two warm-up games.

India captain Rohit Sharma termed the combination best. "We're happy. This is the best we can do with balance and depth. We have three all-rounders in the team, four bowlers and six batters. We have thought about it a lot and named this squad. This is the best combination for us."

"We need to create that depth and we found that it was lacking in our team for the last few years. When we talk about depth in batting, that No.9, No.8 positions become crucial. In the first game here we saw that we fell short in the backend. We want tailenders to contribute too. Another 10-15 runs in that game would have made a difference, that is the margin between winning and losing. We have spoken to them."

MISSION '23

A look at the 15-member squad and what their roles are expected to be for the global event...

ROHIT SHARMA: Twelve years back, he was at the lowest ebb of his career after missing out on a World Cup berth and today, he would be the 'Master of India's fate'. This will possibly be his last ODI global event. His form has been a bit up and down but if he gets a good start, there is not much that could stop him. M 246 R 9922 AVG 48.87

VIRAT KOHLI: At nearly 35 and a decade at the top, he wouldn't mind a second ICC trophy, an achievement that eluded him as captain. He has 46 tons and four more would get him past his idol Sachin Tendulkar. M 277 R 12902 AVG 57.08

SHUBMAN GILL: The 23-year-old, who has been on the rise, has the makings of becoming a great of the game and consistent performances on the biggest stage will put him on that path. M 29 R 1514 AVG 63.08

HARDIK PANDYA: The India vice-captain is like a link-man, who would be the bridge between top and lower middle order. With the ball, He could come in and break partnerships. M 79 R 1753 AVG 34.37

ISHAN KISHAN: There was little doubt over his selection in the final 15. In the limited opportunities he has got, Kishan has delivered both at the top of the order and in the middle order. M 19 R 776 AVG 48.5

SURYAKUMAR YADAV: He made an immediate impression in T20Is but his form in ODI cricket which is a matter of concern going into the WC. M 26 R 511 AVG 24.3

KL RAHUL: Focus will firmly be on the wicketkeeper given his lack of game time. However, Rahul's technique and application have impressed even his critics. M 54 R 1986 AVG 45.13

RAVINDRA JADEJA: He will shoulder the spin duties with Kuldeep and will also give the option of keeping the left-hand-right hand combination going. M 179 R 2574 AVG 32.58

MOHAMMED SIRAJ: In the absence of Shami and Bumrah, he was the leader of the pace attack in the recent Test tour of Caribbean and revelled in the role. Hewill start ahead of Shami in the XI. M 26 W 46 AVG 20.69

JASPRIT BUMRAH: Having made a promising comeback, the 29-year-old will shoulder the pace attack in India and will be hugely relied upon for wickets with the new ball and in the death overs. M 73 W 121 AVG 24.3

AXAR PATEL: He is a hard-hitting left-handed batter who can change the complexion of a match on his day. A shrewd tactician with the ball, the lanky spinner will be more than handy in India. M 52 W 58 AVG 31.48

SHREYAS IYER: He will be tasked with batting at No. 4. Iyer's ability to score freely is his biggest strength. However, the rival teams are expected to test him with short balls. M 44 R 1645 AVG 45.69

SHARDUL THAKUR: Thakur can swing the ball both ways but can also hit that hard lengths and has a wicked bouncer that can catch the batsmen napping. He brings in the important balance to the team while often batting at No. 8 in ODIs. M 40 W 59 AVG 29.11

KULDEEP YADAV: Till last year he was struggling to break into the playing XI. But he didn't give up and produced impactful performances in Sri Lanka's tour of India and in the West Indies recently to make a case for himself and secure a place in the squad. M 86 W 141 AVG 26.79

MOHAMMED SHAMI: Just like Rohit and Kohli, he will also be playing his third and last World Cup. When it comes to skillsets, he is peerless in this Indian set up but if Asia Cup is any indication, he might only come in if one among Bumrah, Siraj or Thakur gets injured. M 91 W 163 AVG 26

RAHUL DRAVID (COACH): As a player, he never had the chance to be a part of a World Cup at home. He came close to winning one in 2003 when they lost in the final. As a coach, he has won a few with the U19 team. Lifting the senior ODI WC in India would be another feather in his cap.

Super Four stage stays in Colombo

FIROZ MIRZA @Pallekele

IN a big relief to all the stakeholders including fans and broadcaster, the Asian Cricket Council has decided not to move Super Four stage of the 2023 Asia Cup out of Colombo. The ACC along with co-host Sri Lanka Cricket and other participating nations was mulling over a move to shift the tournament out of Colombo due to heavy rains in the city.

As many as five Super Four matches are scheduled to be held in Colombo from September 9 to 15 apart from the final two days later.

A few alternate venues including Dambulla and Hambantota also came up for discussion but the former was rejected as the visiting West Indies U-19 team is scheduled to play a four-day match at the venue from September 5 to 8. Their next four-day match starts at the same venue on September 12. They reached Sri Lanka last month and had already played three 50-over day matches. Hambantota was an option but the distance of hotels and the ground might have worked against it.

An SLC source on Monday told this daily,, "At present effort is on to make the original schedule work. Anyways, there are still four days left for the first match in Colombo. Today the rain has subsided in Colombo which is good."

Meanwhile, it is learnt that the Indian team has left Kandy on Tuesday for Colombo. They play their first Super Four match against arch-rivals Pakistan on September 10.

Sources said that the decision to keep the tournament in Colombo was taken as a few teams including India were not willing to play a leg of the event in Hambantota. Even Sri Lanka preferred to play in Colombo. While sources confirmed about the decision, there was no official statement from the ACC, which in fact never spoke on the proposed move of shifting the event out of Colombo. Among the cricket boards involved, SLC must be quite relieved as it has suspended all board-run domestic tournaments in the country apparently to restructure it last Friday. The decision meant most of venues were not ready to host the Asia Cup at such a short notice.

Sri Lanka though hosted the Lanka Premier League from July 30 to August 20 but all games were played either in Colombo or Pallekele.

SL survive as Afghanistan exit

AGENCIES @Lahore

IT was heartbreak for Afghanistan as they lost to Sri Lanka by 2 runs in the Asia Cup in Lahore on Tuesday.

Needing 292 runs in 37.1 overs to qualify for the next round on net run-rate, Afghanistan were in with a chance until the end. Rashid Khan had hit three fours in the 37th over to keep the team in the hunt. However, he eventually lacked support as No 10 and No 11 batters went in quick succession without disturbing the scorers. In the end, they finished on 289.

Brief scores: Sri Lanka 291/8 in 50 ovs (Mendis 92; Gulbadin Naib 4/60) bt Afghanistan 289 in 37.4 ovs (Nabi 65 Rajitha 4/79) by 2 runs.

Indian fans are unbelievable: WWE star McIntyre

KALYANI MANGALE @Chennai

WWE Champion Drew McIntyre and the other wrestling superstars will attend the "WWE Superstar Spectacle" event in Hyderabad on September 8. In a chat with this daily, McIntyre talks about his nickname, fans in India and more. Excerpts:

On his nickname: The Scottish Warrior

If anybody has looked at my life and career, it's been very much a case of getting knocked down and getting back up and pushing forward. As Rocky Balboa once said, it's not about how hard you can hit, it's about how hard you can get hit and keep moving forward. You know, that's how winning is done. And that's the warrior mentality.

On his previous India visit

I loved my previous experience in India. The fans were unbelievable. I've heard just how popular WWE is in India and to experience it with my own eyes and meet some of the fans was unreal. The food was obviously fantastic and, I can't wait to actually wrestle. That was all that was missing last time, getting to perform for the Indian fans.

Zverev versus Alcaraz in last eight

AGENCIES @ New York

CARLOS Alcaraz surged into the quarterfinals of the US Open on Monday as upsets dominated the women's draw with Ons Jabeur and Jessica Pegula becoming the latest highly ranked players to go crashing out.

Defending champion Alcaraz produced a dominant display to overwhelm Italian world No. 61 Matteo Arnaldi, winning 6-3, 6-3, 6-4 in 1hr 57min. Alcaraz will face 12th seed Alexander Zverev in Wednesday's quarterfinals after the 2020 US Open finalist from Germany defeated Italian sixth seed Jannik Sinner in a five-set duel tinged with controversy. Zverev downed Sinner 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3 on the Arthur Ashe Stadium. The 4hr 41min battle, which wrapped at 1.39am local time, saw an ugly incident in the fourth set when Zverev complained of a "Hitler phrase" being shouted from the stands as he prepared to serve. "He just said the most famous Hitler phrase there is in this world," Zverev told the umpire. "This is unbelievable."

A male fan was subsequently identified as the alleged culprit and ejected from the arena before Zverev went on to seal victory. "I love when fans are loud, I love when fans are emotional but I think me being German, and not really proud of that history, it's not really a great thing to do," Zverev said of the incident afterwards. "If I just don't react I think it's bad from my side."

Eighth-seeded Russian Andrey Rublev advanced with a 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 defeat of Britain's Jack Draper. Rublev will now face an all-Russian quarterfinal against close friend Daniil Medvedev, the third-seeded 2021 US Open champion.

Gauff in semis

Coco Gauff thrashed Jelena Ostapenko in straight sets to reach the semifinals for the first time on Tuesday. Gauff dominated Latvia's 20th seed Ostapenko from start to finish, winning 6-0, 6-2.

Sports minister Anurag Thakur (C), IOA president PT Usha with the Asian Games-bound athletes during the send-off ceremony in New Delhi on Tuesday

Asiad: Ceremonial dress, kit unveiled at glittering function

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

THE official ceremonial dress and player kit for Asian Games were finally unveiled during a glittering ceremony at New Delhi on Tuesday. The grand send-off ceremony for athletes was attended by Indian Olympic Association president PT Usha, sports minister Anurag Thakur and other senior officials of the IOA and ministry.

India will be represented by 634 athletes in 38 disciplines. There were apprehensions when IOA delayed to begin the tender process of the ceremonial dress and later when the ministry delayed clearing the final list of players for the Games, officials felt it would be touch and go to get at least 1000 set ready.

According to IOA, the Indian contingent was represented by Indian hockey goalkeepers PR Sreejesh (men), Savita Punia (women), shooting sensation Manu Bhaker and 2018 Asian Games shot put gold medallist Tajinderpal Singh Toor among sportspersons from many other disciplines. The dress was designed and conceptualised by the National Institute of Fashion Technology and it includes a khaki textured saree for women and khaki kurta for the male players. The player kit is crafted by JSW Inspire, who are the official sport apparel partner of the contingent. Speaking on the occasion Thakur said, "It's not just a uniform; it's a symbol of pride and identity for our athletes. The uniform proudly represents India's self-reliance and showcases the country's diverse heritage and design leadership."

Usha said she expects every member of the contingent to give their best. "We have waited long for the 2022 Asian Games and are delighted that India is sending its largest contingent of 634 athletes. We believe that this squad has the potential to get India its best medal haul as well," she said.

Sidra conquers demons of past to shine in T20Is

KALYANI MANGALE @Chennai

ON 14 March 2022, Pakistan faced Bangladesh in the Women's ODI World Cup for the first time. This thriller between the Asian sides went till the last over, adding to the reputation of the tournament as one of the closest ever.

History was made as Bangladesh won their first-ever World Cup match, while Sidra Amin became the first Pakistani player to score a century at the global event. As the Bangladeshi camp celebrated, Sidra walked in to address the media in what could be described as probably the shortest press conference of the tournament. "I would have preferred to win it for my team," the centurion kept repeating with a heartbroken voice.

A year and a half later, she still remembers that hollow feeling. "I cried a lot after that match and most of the night," Sidra told this daily from Karachi. "Trust me, I tried my best to forget about it but I couldn't take it out of my mind that our team didn't win that day. I wasn't even sure how to react," the opener said. On Sunday, the batter from Lahore not only smashed her career-best score in T20Is but helped build a foundation for Pakistan's famous T20I series win against South Africa. Once again Sidra wasn't sure how to react, but this time, it was purely because of jubilation. "All of us were ecstatic that I couldn't even sleep. (Sealing the series) was a historic moment for all of us."

One could hear the joy in her voice. Why wouldn't she be? An ODI specialist, who got her opportunities in the shortest format on the back of her consistency knows the importance of these opportunities. "I used to get selected in the T20I squads, but I could not make the most of those chances in the past. I have been a regular part of the ODI squad and I used it to build my momentum for the T20Is. I think, I am still learning and there is still room for improvement. For now, I just want to give the best possible start to my team," she added. Keeping her word, Sidra scored 133 runs across three T20Is, the most by any Pakistan batter, to help chase down 150-plus totals in two matches.

A new type of random number generator being developed in Linköping University, Sweden, promises to make digital information exchange safer, cheaper and more environment-friendly

MAKING A CYBER SECURE FORTRESS

NIRAD MUDUR

THE competition between hackers and those protecting information and systems is now set to tilt in favour of the latter.

Researchers from two departments of Electrical Engineering and Department of Physics, Chemistry and Biology at Linköping University in Sweden are developing a system to vastly improve encryption, the most tried and tested way to protect information, and boost cybersecurity. They are developing a new type of Quantum Random Number Generator (QRNG) working on quantum phenomena with a cost-effective and environment-friendly laser. The system which is under development is expected to be in use to boost cybersecurity in five years, according to Guilherme B Xavier, researcher at the Department of Electrical Engineering at Linköping University, as cited by Linköping University website.

With an increasing number of people connected through cyber networks, besides the dependence of banking and national security on the digital worldwide network growing, it has become all the more imperative to ensure enhanced cybersecurity.

Encryption is done by generating random numbers through a computer programme or hardware, the latter considered safer due to physical processes involved. At the receiving end, the data can be unlocked using keys provided by the random number generator and known only to the receiver.

In hardware random number generation, the best randomness, according to the researchers, is provided by the QRNGs. However, while existing QRNGs are using traditional lasers which are expensive and higher energy-consuming, the Linköping University researchers are developing the new system using light emitting diodes made from the crystal-like material perovskite, a naturally occurring mineral of calcium titanate.

Perovskite is found to tom offer excellent light absorption and charge-carrier mobilities, resulting in high device efficiency. It is low-cost and an industry-scalable technology with potential applications in lasers, sensors, catalyst electrodes, solar and fuel cells, memory devices and spintronics (study of intrinsic spin of electrons).

According to the university website, Feng Gao, professor at Department of Physics, Chemistry and Biology, Linköping University, who has researched perovskites over a decade, believes that the recent development of perovskite light emitting diodes (PeLEDs) means that there is an opportunity to revolutionise. "It's possible to use...a traditional laser for QRNG, but it's expensive. If the technology eventually finds its way into consumer electronics, it's important that the cost is kept down and that the production is as environmentally friendly as possible. In addition, PeLEDs don't require as much energy to run," the website quotes him.

Trials have revealed that the new QRNG using perovskite is significantly better than existing QRNGs.

The website cites Xavier: "In cryptography, it's not only important that the numbers are random, but that you're the only one who knows about them. With QRNGs, we can certify that a large amount of the generated bits is private and thus completely secure. And if the laws of quantum physics are true, it should be impossible to eavesdrop without the recipient finding out."

The researchers are now working to extend the durability of perovskite in the QRNG, which at current is 22 days.

HEALTHY CHOICE

TOWARDS THE MAKING OF A SUPER-POTATO

Potatoes, the staple of many around the world, including in India, are heading for a much healthier makeover. Scientists are experimenting to make potato disease-free, more nutritious and a weather-proof crop.

Scientists from McGill University in Montreal, Quebec, Canada, have created a potato super pangenome to identify genetic traits that can help produce the next super-potato. The scientists have assembled the genome sequences of nearly 300 varieties of potatoes and its wild relatives. Towards that end, they are mapping the pangenome of the potato, which will capture the complete genetic diversity within a species, with a super-pangenome mapping the same in multiple species of potatoes. The researchers say the super-pangenome would shed light on the potato's genetic diversity and what kinds of genetic traits could potentially be bred into our modern-day crop to make it better. The super-pangenome involves 60 species of potatoes—the most extensive collection of genome sequence data for the potato and its relatives to date, according to the researchers. In the process of creating the potato pangenome and the super-pangenome, the researchers took to supercomputers to analyse information from public databases, which included gene banks in the US, Peru and Canada. The researchers believe potato pangenome would provide details spanning centuries on evolution of potato, which is found to have been domesticated by the indigenous population scattered in the mountains of southern Peru about 10,000 years ago. However, the data eventually obtained is expected to be valuable in identifying specific genes that could lead to the super-potato using gene editing technology.

FACT OF THE MATTER

Large herbivores can keep invasive plants at bay

AARHUS (DENMARK): Large herbivores can protect local nature by eating and trampling on biodiversity-threatening invasive plant species. Meanwhile, native plants have evolved such that they can withstand brutal treatment from species of herbivores they have co-existed with for millennia, while invasive plants usually cannot. This is the conclusion of a new study from Aarhus University and the Wildlife Institute of India.

New research reveals Earth's ancient 'breath'

POTSMOUTH: Scientists have uncovered an important link between Earth's early atmosphere and the chemistry of its deep mantle. The study, led by the universities of Portsmouth and Montpellier, sheds new light on evolution of life on Earth and the rise of atmospheric oxygen. Researchers studied magmas formed in ancient subduction zones, where portions of Earth's crust sink back into the mantle, from the Great Oxidation Event.

Section 302: A True Tamil Crime Podcast by Bengaluru-based Dipika A Khaitan and Chennai-based business partner Ramesh Jayakumar Chetty documents heinous crimes that have plagued the city of Chennai

What we are going to do as a network is look at different kinds of stories and areas where we could do a few more shows

– Dipika A Khaitan

Ramesh Jayakumar Chetty

SONU M KOTHARI

IT begins with eerie background music, instantly giving the feeling of being stuck in the middle of nowhere at midnight with the wind caressing your hair. As you find something near your feet and reach for it, a deep feminine voice says, "Ellathukum oru mudhal irukum" (Everything has a start). Human Podium's Section 302: A Tamil True Crime Podcast is not one for the faint hearts. The podcast documents the crime scenes that spread fear in Madras. Partnering for the podcast are friends and business partners Dipika A Khaitan, who runs a publishing house and belongs to the family that runs legacy restaurant MTR, and Ramesh Jayakumar Chetty, who is the director of Human Xpert India, a medical billing company in Chennai.

Past crimes

With authentication and sources to back, the first case explored is the historical case of Aalavandhar, the first murder mystery in Chennai after the implementation of the Indian Penal Code. The episode cites the triviality of the city – the sound of temple bells in Thiruvallikeni, the slurps of hot coffee, and the giant fast-paced steps of a policeman. "This was one of the most heinous crimes with a lot of twists and turns and a famous murder investigation as historians are concerned. We wanted to pay homage to that," says Chetty.

The Aalavandhar case took place in the early 1950s. Though a lot of articles were available online and offline, the team researched the whole case to make sure that the data was verified before reporting them in their podcast. "We made sure to go back to the story. Narasimhan, the scriptwriter, went back to his sources to verify the facts reported. His father was an eminent historian and a scriptwriter of Tamil cinema. That was a great source material," adds Chetty.

The team wanted to set the story and the platform right from their first case. Though the motive is to make money, the brand holds a strong sense of responsibility towards the audience – to make them well-informed. "We want to do it right by making people wiser, smarter, and also entertaining. Information is knowledge and power, we wanted to give that to them," says Khaitan while Chetty adds, "We wanted to educate the people on how 1952 Madras was. We have given a lot of historical anecdotes making it a point to sprinkle it throughout the story to make sure it educates the public."

Live the stories

The team is 13 members strong, including proficient voice-over artistes, Deepika Arun and Bharat Raj. For every episode, the recording sessions go on for two days and the other two days are for post-production works. While Khaitan handles the financial aspects of the company, Chetty is in charge of production.

True Crime is one of the top genres consumed in podcasting medium. The partners feel that true crime is "not explored properly" in any Indian language. So being a startup, the brand wanted to make a wise and economically sound decision by centering on the crime classification. They plan to bring out discussions on real-life crime cases. "We are going to stick to the parts, facts, and how the story developed, stick to the names even if it is going to create controversy and we want to be true to the story and deliver it to the audience properly, that's the responsibility of a producer," says Chetty, adding, "We want to give people a choice to listen to new things, new areas to explore, learn new things and that's why we chose podcasts. Other platforms are quite saturated."

The medium has the power to improve lifestyle, and knowledge gaining and could be listened to while performing other works as well. And Tamil is one of the biggest diasporas around. "And based out of Chennai, I had a vested interest to start in a comfortable space. It is always good to start from your home ground," shares Chetty.

As far as regional space and language are concerned, there is a big quality gap in the production. Hence, the company is coming out with one episode a week on Fridays. "What we are going to do as a network is we are looking at different kinds of stories, we are exploring pilots, and a few other areas where we could do a few more shows. Those will come out on a different day," says Khaitan. With many plans envisioned, the partners are getting ready for a new episode release this week.

Section 302: A Tamil True Crime Podcast is available on YouTube, Spotify, and Apple Podcasts.

1. United Breweries Group, widely known as UB Group, a well-known alcoholic beverages company based in Bengaluru was established in 1915 by Thomas Leishman, a Scotsman by bringing together five existing breweries. After 1947, Vittal Mallya who bought the shares of the company became the chairman and took the group to greater heights by acquiring many other small distilleries and breweries. Name the world-renowned beer brand produced by the UB Group which is available in more than 50 countries.

2. Indian Telephone Industries Ltd., known as ITI was set up in Bengaluru in 1948. Though initially it functioned as a factory unit manufacturing all kinds of tele-communication equipment and spare parts, it was soon incorporated as a public company in 1950 and became one of India's largest public sector undertakings in the later years. Cult-classic Lucia is getting a re-release on Sept 6, the decennial anniversary of the film's original release. Filmmaker Pawan Kumar and actor Satish Ninasam on the film's unlikely making, unexpected success and its continued relevance

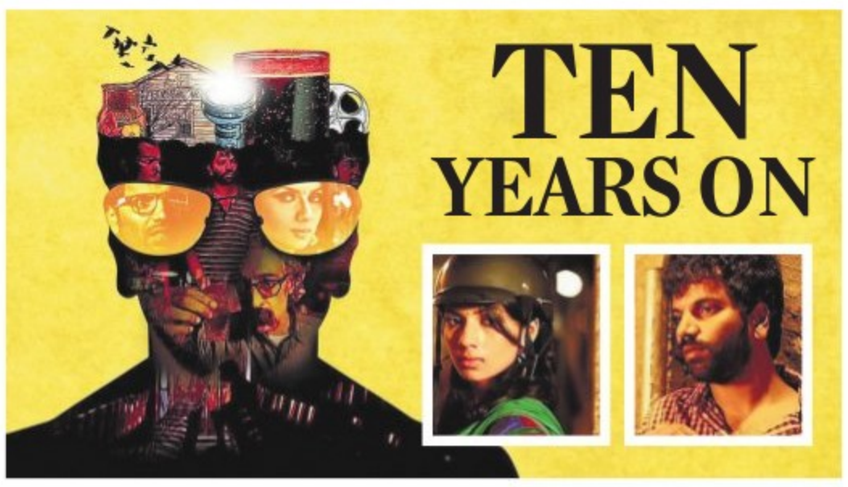
TEN YEARS ON



DESE GOWDA

WHILE we were filming, the most important thing on all our minds was to just be able to finish the film, and make enough money to return it to those who gave us money. We had no idea about the kind of success it would become," says actor Sathish Ninasam, about his debut film in the lead role, Lucia. A landmark in Kannada film industry, the psychological-thriller drama film, starring Ninasam and Sruthi Hariharan, is often credited with ushering a new wave of alternate filmmaking and experimental stories.

Originally released 10 years ago to the day, Lucia has since achieved cult status, and on occasion of its decennial celebrations is getting a limited re-release on multiplexes across Bengaluru. But the film's making was anything but straightforward. Made with a paltry budget of ₹45 lakh, a majority of which was crowdsourced, the film's runaway success showed that making good cinema didn't require enormous budgets, expensive equipment or a massive crew.

"There's behind-the-scenes footage on YouTube of me carrying my laptop and running on the streets of London. We had got an opportunity to show Lucia at a film festival there and at the last minute, I was told that the show was being cancelled due to technical issues. I had the film on my laptop and I hurried to the venue and into the projectionist's room, and we connected my laptop and showed the film. That's basically how every aspect of filming went. We would face problems constantly and would find innovative ways to resolve them," says screenwriter and director Pawan Kumar.

Concurring with the director, Ninasam adds, "The film was made with a barebones crew, there were no caravans, no entourage or anything that a big-budget film would have. Yet I remember the days we spent making the film very fondly. And the success of the film tells you how strong the screenplay, the performances and the camera work were. It made my job easier and helped highlight my performance."

The actor, fondly known as 'Kwatle Sathisha' after his acclaimed role in 2012's Drama, remembers initially being apprehensive about taking up the mantle of a lead actor in Lucia. But the deep connection with one of the two characters he portrays in the film, helped overcome that. "I used to work in a theatre myself, and so the portrayal of 'Nikki' was very close to my life. Furthermore, my fluency and comfort with the Mandya-style Kannada, also came handy," he says, adding, "But I also had to portray a completely different character – that of a broody film star – in the film as well. It was a unique opportunity, where I could express the different aspects of my craft."

Apart from garnering critical acclaim, numerous awards and unexpected box-office success, Lucia was one of the first Kannada films to have had shows across cities in India.

Lucia was to screen in London and at the last minute, I was told that it was being cancelled due to technical issues. Since I had the film on my laptop, it was screened from that

BEYOND COCKTAILS & CHANDELIERS

In the first of a three-part series, diplomat-politician Mani Shankar Aiyar shares the story of his first fifty years in a style typical of him, unfiltered

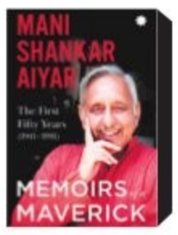
VIDYA IYENGAR

CALL him what you may – 'indiscreet', 'irreverential', or 'irrefragable', Mani Shankar Aiyar knows how to hold an audience with his frank and forthright remarks. With a colourful career in the Indian Foreign Service – one which began in Mussoorie and took him to Karachi, Brussels, Hanoi and a host of other places – and later as a politician, Aiyar's career has been marked with several highs and many lows.

On Friday, Aiyar was in the city at the Bangalore International Centre in Domlur, to launch his book, Memoirs of a Maverick: The First Fifty Years (1941–1991), the first of a three-part series, where he shares some of his early influences, the life of a diplomat, strengthening Indo-Pak ties by managing India's first consulate general in Karachi and then going onto work intimately with Rajiv Gandhi in the PMO. "I wouldn't call it an autobiography, I find the word pretentious. Nehru wrote an autobiography, people like me write a memoir," says Aiyar, who was in conversation with former Foreign Secretary of India, Nirupama Menon Rao and journalist Nupur Basu at a session titled, Out of Syllabus: Mani Shankar Aiyar Unfiltered.

The audience comprised former minister Nafees Fazal, former Ambassador of India to UNESCO in Paris Chiranjiv Singh, former secretary of the Ministry of Culture Abhijit Sengupta, among others | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

The first part (published by Juggernaut and priced at ₹800) delves into his first five decades – from his childhood at Dehradun where he was raised by his feisty widowed mother to nearly becoming the president of the Cambridge Union, and working as a young diplomat. "I was brought up in penury and poverty, so much so we never had home clothes and wore the school uniform during holidays," recalls Aiyar, who was the 'poorest boy' in the richest school, The Doon School, Dehradun.



Incidentally, it was here that he was schoolmates with Rajiv Gandhi, who he later went onto work with in the PMO. "He was three years junior to me in a school where no one gave a toss that he was the PM's grandson. There was this rule that a student who had done the Senior Cambridge exam was designated a senior and would have to give the 'juniors' permission to use the pool. So a shy 14-year-old boy walked up to me saying, 'Yaar, give us permission to swim yaar', which I graciously did. I often wonder had I done the usual Doon School thing of not agreeing, whether I would have got into Rajiv Gandhi's PMO," he shares with a laugh.

His childhood connection with Gandhi was often misconstrued and Aiyar clarifies that he only shared an 'official' relationship with him after he joined Gandhi's PMO. "I must mention that I always called him 'Sir'," says Aiyar, whose book, The Rajiv I Knew and Why He Was India's Most Misunderstood Prime Minister will be out in a couple of months. "I just handed over the manuscript before coming to Bengaluru," he says.

Known for his wit and many indiscretions, Aiyar often found and finds himself in a spot. Like this one time he was asked by an editor of a newspaper if Gandhi believed in God. Late at night and not able to check with Gandhi himself, Aiyar reasoned that a modern, rational man would likely be an atheist. The next morning he went into the PM's cabin and informed him of his answer, only to be astonished when Gandhi retorted, 'But I do believe in God.'

Speaking of which, and admitting to a streak of irreverence – a quality he and his brother inherited from their mother – Aiyar recalls living in a religious household but becoming a firm atheist by the age of 15. "And yet despite knowing that her children did not agree with her, she never stopped us. From Amma we learnt to be independent in thought and take the consequences of our speech and actions. You can't expect people you have been irreverent to, to be kind to you. You say what you want but you have to know full well that you will be attacked by the people you have," he says.

BALANCING THE MUSIC IN A DIALOGUE-HEAVY FILM LIKE TATSAMA TATBHAVA WAS A CHALLENGE: VASUKI VAIBHAV

The composer, speaking about his latest project, shares that collaborating with a familiar team provided him with a distinctive experience

A SHARADHAA

ACCLAIMED singer and Bigg Boss contestant Vasuki Vaibhav made his debut as a music director with Rama Rama Re. He continues to showcase his versatility by predominantly selecting content-based subjects. He recently ventured into the realm of commercial entertainment with Badava Rascal. "I choose the best opportunities that come my way. Initially, I was predominantly approached for content-driven projects. But with Sa.Hi.Pra.Shaale, I encountered a different approach. Scoring music for Mundina Nildana immersed me in more romantic themes. Then, Badava Rascal marked my first foray into commercial entertainers. Similarly, I now have yet-to-be-released films such as Tagaru Palya, and other films like Anna from Mexico, and Jimmy, each offering something unique," says Vasuki.

Discussing about his upcoming film, Tatsama Tatbhava, slated to release on September 15, both in Kannada and Malayalam, Vasuki says that he is excited to collaborate with a familiar team, which gave him a distinctly different experience this time around. "Given its investigative thriller premise, and with minimal songs—only one promotional track and one for the credits—my entire focus was dedicated to crafting the background score. Balancing the score within the context of the dialogue-heavy nature of the film posed a challenge. Nevertheless, I found immense enjoyment in conveying the narrative through my music."

Vasuki further reflects on the debutant director, Vishal Atreya, and Pannaga Bharana, who embarks on his debut as a producer. "Vishal is very meticulous. Despite transitioning from director to producer for this project, Pannaga never intruded upon creative decisions."

When asked about the challenges while scoring for an interrogation-based subject, Vasuki says, "It offers an abundance of opportunities to construct a musical world, and it is a must to travel alongside the characters, and to intensify the emotional depth. It's all about enriching the viewer's experience through the score."

Tatsama Tatbhava stars Meghana Raj as the lead, with Prajwal Devaraj in a pivotal role. Vasuki reiterates that a film's success ultimately hinges on the essence of the characters, and that is definitely on point in this film.

Meanwhile, Vasuki, who has a promising lineup of projects, is eagerly anticipating the release of Tagaru Palya, which is set to hit theatres in a couple of months. He states, " 'Tagaru Palya' is a splendid fusion of drama and commercial elements—a seamless blend of comedy and emotions."

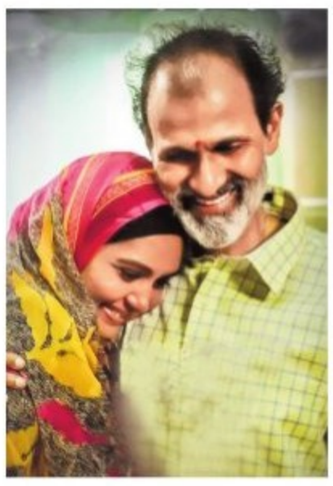
13 locks its release date

DIRECTOR Narendra Babu's 13 brings together versatile actors like Raghavendra Rajkumar, Shruti, and Pramod Shetty, who play significant roles in film, which is set to hit screens across the state on September 15.

Speaking about the film's release, Raghanna, who plays the protagonist says, "To understand this story, one must not see me as the hero. The real hero of this film is the content." While Raghavendra Rajkumar plays a retired soldier running a shop, the film is about how a husband and wife living in harmony end up becoming victims for no fault of their own. The thriller depicts their struggle to break free from these clutches.

Even though it is Narendra Babu's eighth film, the director admits to a lingering sense of fear. "13 isn't an action film. It has three commercial songs with music by Shogan Babu, a 19-year-old prodigy who has done an excellent job," says the director, who plans to release his film in two parts, with Part 2 picking up where Part 1 left off.

The film, produced by Sampath, also features Lokesh, Dileep Pai, and Vinay Surya in prominent roles. Manjunath Naidu is the cinematographer of the film.



There will be blood

Film: Humanist Vampire Seeking Consenting Suicidal Person

CINEMA WITHOUT BORDERS

In this weekly column, the writer introduces you to powerful cinema from across the world

NAMRATA JOSHI

IF there was an award for the most inventive film title of 2023, then, for me, Ariane Louis-Seize's Humanist Vampire Seeking Consenting Suicidal Person would have been in close competition with Joanna Arnow's Cannes Directors' fortnight film, The Feeling That the Time for Doing Something Has Passed. A thing in common between them is that both films have much more going for them beyond their interesting names.

Prima facie the premise of Louis-Seize's debut feature is far-out: a young vampire can't quite be a vampire. Not only does Sasha (Sara Montpetit) lack the instinct to kill and doesn't have fangs to strike for human blood, but she also can't watch slashers and horror films. Instead, she is a born musician, playing melodies on the keyboard like a trained professional. She is a humanist vampire in whom compassion gets triggered—not hunger—at the sight of human death. An impairment that needs to be fixed urgently. After all how long can she live off her parents and thrive on their ration of blood? Sasha must learn that "cadavers don't grow on trees", and fend for her own food for which she needs to go out on a kill for sustenance or die for the lack of nutritive blood. She meets Paul (Felix-Antoine Bénard), a lonely, much-bullied teenager with suicidal tendencies who gets into a pact with her. He will die to save her future as a vampire but only after fulfilling a last wish of his own before sunrise.

After its world premiere in the parallel Giornate degli Autori section at Venice, the French language Canadian—rather Quebecois—film, Humanist Vampire... plays in the Centrepiece segment of the Toronto International Film Festival.

It starts off on a wacky, funny and charming note with an eminently likeable kooky vampire family at the core. But, as Sasha pulls out blood bags from her parents' fridge and sips noisily through the straw, you can sense her unspoken plight. There's the obvious darker, oft done theme here of teenage angst. Sasha and Paul, a vampire and a human, are united in that they are both outsiders in their own worlds, at odds in personal relationships and with family members. On top of that, they barely have any friends. Both are going through the same tumultuous phase in life, are much misunderstood, disregarded and, in turn, tormented. Like so many other teens they are unable to belong. The film tries to capture their inner turmoil while highlighting the search for individual identity and space. Vampirism then becomes like a familiar allegory for being the freaky, odd lot. Camaraderie is found in swaying gently together to Sasha's collection of jazz music.

Somewhere along the way, the film becomes all about existential anxieties and changes its course from all the mirth to melancholia with a bittersweet tone replacing the overt amusement at the start. [Suicide Warning] Things take a troubling, morbid turn as the two of them talk about life and death. Is it easier to find meaning in death than in life? When life ceases to enthral, does death seem like a solution?

Humanist Vampire is visually striking. Shot largely at night, it is high on atmospherics as it plays with psychedelic neon lights and splashy colours against the overarching core of darkness. The eclectic soundtrack underscores the inner claustrophobia of the two and the urge to break free.

Ultimately what works in its favour is the film's commitment to and warmth for its two protagonists. It is built on and draws from the characters. Montpetit and Benard are in perfect sync and make the audience connect with and feel for Sasha and Paul even as the film veers towards a predictable finale despite the promise of freshness in the beginning.

Shreyas Manju, Brinda Acharya team up for Ondsala Meet Madana

This travel-based film, which is helmed by veteran director S Narayan, went on the floors in Chikkamagaluru

NAMRATA JOSHI

SHREYAS Manju is headlining veteran director S Narayan's next, which went into production in Chickamagaluru after a simple muhurath ceremony. Titled Ondsala Meet Madana, the film marks the Paddehuli actor's first collaboration with the veteran director. The director previously mentioned that his film would feature impactful content set in a contemporary backdrop, resonating with both parents and children.

Since the film is a travel-based love story, the makers plan to shoot in places like Chickmagalur, Sakaleshpur, Virajpete, Kannur, Mysuru, Bengaluru, Belagavi, and Goa, among others.

With Shreyas Manju in the lead role, the makers have cast Brinda Acharya as the female lead. Brinda, known for her role in director Shashank's Kousalya Surpraja Rama starring Krishna, will now share screen space with Shreyas Manju for the first time.

Ondsala Meet Madana is produced by Thayagaraj under the Esha Productions banner, with Manju and Ramesh Yadav co-producing the film. Director Narayana has written the screenplay and dialogues, and the music will be composed by Jassie Gift. Kumar Gowda is handling cinematography, and Shivaprasad Yadav is in charge of editing.

The supporting cast includes Tara Anuradha, Sharath Lohitashwa, Sadhu Kokila, Pramod Shetty, Kalyani, Rangayana Raghu, Pavagada Manju, Jayaram, Sujay Shastry, Giri, and others.

Additionally, Shreyas, who is eagerly awaiting the release of Vishnu Priya, also has Dildaar in the pipeline. Dildaar marks the directorial debut of Madhu Gowda Gangur and also stars Priyanka Kumar.
